THE TRIAL OF EMMA GOLDMAN

PRELIMINARY HEARING IN CHICAGO

POSTPONED BY STATE UNTIL SEPT. 19

The Woman Demands Release on Bail and Court Takes Question Under Advisement.

The Accused Anarchist Leader Minutely Details Her Movements While in St. Louis Last Week.

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—Magistrate Prindiville today granted a continuance till Sept. 19 in the case of Emma Goldman, who was arrested here yesterday.

City Prosecutor Owens stated that the prisoner was charged with conspiracy to murder the President, and that, therefore, he desired that she be held without bail.

Miss Goldman was not represented by counsel, but declared she was ready to proceed with the hearing. When the court granted the continuance she said she wanted to be allowed her freedom under bond. The magistrate said as the latest bulletin indicated that the distinguished patient at Buffalo was on the high road to recovery, he would consider the matter of bail further, and would announce his decision later.

Miss Goldman appeared in court at 9:30 a. m., under the escort of Matron Keegan. She seemed surprised that no lawyer was there to take up her defense, and glanced uneasily about the roomful of uncouth prisoners and curious spectators. She asked for Lawyers Saltiel and Brown, both of whom have been engaged in doing the legal work of the local anarchists arrested last Friday. They were not in court, and Justice Prindiville said he would wait a reasonable time for them to appear.

Although the telephone was kept busy an hour elapsed and the lawyers were still absent. Chief of Detectives Colleran then demanded that the hearing proceed. It took only a few minutes, and then Miss Goldman was led back to her room in the woman's annex.

She looked tired and worn, and there were evidences of nervousness in her manner. She was dressed as she was yesterday, in a shirtwaist and walking skirt. When Prosecutor Owens repeated the charge against her she flushed and then smiled.

"I asked the chief of police last night to have Lawyer Leopold Saltiel sent to me," she said. "I guess he must have forgotten it. I expected that my friends would have been busy in my behalf, forgeting that most of them have been locked up in this nation-wide dragnet which the police have flung out."

DECLARES SHE IS READY.

When Miss Goldman was brought before Judge Prindiville this morning, he asked if she was ready to proceed with the hearing.

"I am ready," she replied, firmly.

Assistant City Prosecutor Owens immediately spoke up: "The prosecution desires a continuance until the 19th, to be set at the same time as the other cases without bail."

Miss Goldman: I would like a hearing right away. I want to see Lawyer Saltiel if he is in court.

The court instructed an officer to ascertain if Mr. Saltiel was in the room.

"Or Lawyer Brown," interjected Miss Goldman.

The court: Do you expect the two lawyers here?

Miss Goldman: I thought they might be here. It does not matter if they are not.

The court then decided to go on with the regular docket and permit time to ascertain if the two lawyers were about.

NO LAWYER APPEARS.

After an hour's time Miss Goldman asked to telephone and see if the lawyers would come and take charge of her case. She left the room, accompanied, and upon her return told the court she had learned the two lawyers were occupied with other cases and that she would therefore take charge of her own case herself.

Prosecutor Owens: Your Honor, I renew my motion to continue the case until the 19th, and that she be held without bail.

The court: What have you got to say, Miss Goldman?

Miss Goldman: I demand a hearing and would like to be put under bail.

Prosecutor Owens then set forth that Miss Goldman is charged with conspiracy to kill and said that in case the President dies she will be an accessory before the fact and under the circumstances he did not think the offense bailable. The court then decided to continue the case till Sept. 19 and said he would consider and announce his decisinon on the matter of bail at noon. Miss Goldman was then taken back to the annex.

DISCOVERER OF THE ANARCHIST PLOT

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—An official report was made by William P. Hazen, then head of the secret service department in New York, on Sept. 20, 1898, stating that at a meeting of an anarchist group in Barlboldi Hall, Patterson, N. J., on Sept. 12, 1898, it was decided to assassinate King Humbert of Italy and William McKinley, President of the United States.

King Humbert was assassinated on July 29, 1900, by Bresci, the Paterson anarchist.

President McKinley was shot in Buffalo last Friday by the Anarchist Czolgosz.

The report made by Mr. Hazen three years ago was sent to Chief Wilkie, head of the secret service bureau in Washington. It is part of the records of his office.

That the attempt on Mr. McKinley's life can be traced back to the meeting in Paterson three years ago Mr. Hazen is confident because of his knowledge of the methods of anarchists, gained when he was chief of the secret service under President Cleveland, and when he was at the head of the bureau in this city.

Mr. Hazen describes the methods of the plotters:

"It may have been that a dozen men were selected for the task of killing President McKinley before the right one was finally found in Czolgosz. This task is a tedious one and has frequently extended over a period of years.

"When a man is selected for an assassination he is schooled in many ways and put through all kinds of tests to prove his loyalty and nerve. These tests are of a kind that break down the nerve of the normal man. They extend over a period of several months.

"If the man is liable to break down at the critical time and perhaps make a confession that will involve his associates they want to know it beforehand. It is because of these tests that so few of the anarchists who commit murders make confessions or show any signs of weakness after arrest.

"The first group that was directed, as a result of the meeting three years ago, to select a man to kill President McKinley probably took a man whose nerve gave out. Then another group took up the task. It may have passed through a dozen groups and to several cities before Czolgosz was finally found and schooled.

"Other anarchists only know the group that has been chosen for an assassination. Only the men in that group know the identity of the individual appointed for the task. This minimizes the danger of exposure and arrest and interference with the plans.

"For these reasons it is not improbable that ever since the meeting in Paterson in September, 1898—of which due warning was sent out—the plot to assassinate Mr. McKinley has been slowly maturing.

"Personally I do not believe that Emma Goldman is in any way connected with the crime of Czolgosz. I think he has mentioned her name to throw the authorities off the track.

"My experience with Emma Goldman taught me that she was only a great talker, but that she was never directly concerned in any assassination plots."

EMMA GOLDMAN'S STORY OF HER MOVEMENTS.

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—Emma Goldman's schedule of her recent movements is as follows:

"I left Chicago July 12, accompanied by Marie Isaaks; arrived in Buffalo July 13; left Buffalo July 15 for Rochester and remained in Rochester over five weeks.

"On Aug. 18 I went to the Buffalo Exposition, accompanied by Marie Isaaks, whom I sent home. Aug. 19 I went to Pittsburg to become traveling saleswoman for a New York house.

"I left Pittsburg Sept. 1 and went to Cincinnati, where I remained one day.

"I arrived in St. Louis Sept. 2, Labor Day, and remained there until last Saturday, when I came to Chicago. I arrived here Sunday morning."

WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS.

Shortly after Miss Goldman left court Lawyer Charles Brown called on the prisoner and informed her that he would ask for a writ of habeas corpus in her behalf this afternoon.

Mr. Brown went then to Justice Prindiville and stated that it would be impossible for him to appear in the justice's court at noon, owing to the proceedings which he intended bringing. The magistrate then consented to allow a further postponement of the bail matter till 5 p. m.

RUMOR THAT CZOLGOSZ HAS CONFESSED THE PLOT.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 11.—The city is filled with rumors that Leon F. Czolgosz has confessed to the police that his attempt upon the life of President McKinley was the result of a conspiracy, in which many besides himself had a part. So far as can be learned, Czolgosz has refused to mention any name except that of Emma Goldman, but it is said that papers are in existence which, if they can be discovered, will lay bare the entire conspiracy and will result in wholesale arrests, followed by prosecutions. Although Emma Goldman was arrested in Chicago, it is probable that she will be brought to Buffalo for trial. The center of the conspiracy is here. Buffalo is filled literally to overflowing with agents of the secret service. A search is being made of every sewer that underlies the city, for it is known that in one of them is a package of papers containing the details of the conspiracy and the names of those concerned with Czolgosz in the plot, together with an outline of its ramifications.

In his alleged confession Czolgosz told of his attempt to destroy the written evidence of the conspiracy. He has said that time did not permit him to burn the papers as he desired. Before leaving his room in Nowak's Hotel, he gathered together all of his papers, taking them from his pockets, from his valise and from the drawers of his table. All were bound together in one package, which he concealed beneath his coat. Czolgosz says that he made a circuitous and aimless trip about the city and that at some point, which he cannot now describe, he came upon an open sewer. Into this sewer he cast his papers. Inch by inch the sewers of this city are being searched, and, if such a thing is possible, those papers will be recovered.

On authoritative information it can be said that during the last 10 weeks Emma Goldman has visited six anarchist organizations. She has been in Buffalo three times since July 12, having left the city the last time four days before the attempted assassination.

Emma Goldman, Czolgosz, Abraham Isaak and Marie Isaak were in consultation in Chicago on two occasions. Marie Isaak accompanied Emma Goldman to Buffalo the last time the archleader of the anarchists was here.

Leon Czolosz was accompanied to Buffalo and about the city by a mysterious Bohemian man and woman, who acted so suspiciously as to warrant the assumption that they knew of the intention of Czolgosz to assassinate the President. These two Bohemians are now being looked for all over the United States.

PRESIDENT DOING WELL; RECOVERY WILL BE SLOW

Re-Opening and Re-Dressing of Outer Wound Gives No Ground for Apprehension.

GOOD RESULTS HAVE FOLLOWED

Conditions Which Necessitated This Action Are Not Regarded as Unusual.

SURGEONS ARE CONFIDENT

MILUBRN HOUSE, Buffalo, Sept. 11, 9:05 a. m.—The following bulletin was issued by the President's physicians at 9 a. m.:

The President rested comfortably during the night. Decided benefit has followed the dressing of the wound made last night. His stomach tolerates the beef juice well and it is taken with great satisfaction. His condition this morning is excellent. Pulse 116, temperature 100.2.

CHEERING REPORTS FOLLOW DOCTORS' CONSULTATION.

MILBURN HOUSE, BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 11.—The doctors arried for the morning consultation at 8:30. Dr. Park said before he entered the Milburn residence that if alarming stories had gone abroad as a result of last night's operation, they were entirely unwaranted. Everythin, he declared, was going satisfactorily. The taking out of a few stitches and the redressing of the wound, he said, constituted an unimportant incident and gave not the slightest ground for apprehending complications.

The stay of the doctors was rather longer than usual, but this was to be expected after the events of last night. There was intense anxiety to learn the first announcement of the morning, as this was looked forward to as an index of the day.

It was noted that no cabinet officer had called since early last evening, so that it was apparent that those nearest to the President, in an official capacity, were not alarmed over the happenings of last night.

"AL LGOOD 'NEWS."

The conference broke up at 9:15 and five minutes later Dr. Mynter left the house.

"It is al good news," said he, as he reached the rope, at which half a hundred newspaper men were congregated. "The action we took last night has proved beneficial.

"I feel more confidence in the President's recovery than at any time since he was shot.

"Everything is favorable and we have tripled the amount of nourishment, giving him now three teaspoonfuls of beef juice every hour instead of one.

"But the President's recovery will be slow. All falk of him sitting up in a few days and leaving Buffalo in a week is nonsense. I shall be satisfied if he can be moved in six weeks.'

Dr. Mynter said that Dr. Mann had taken out the stitches in the wound last night. He described the necessity for the action, explaining that an irritation of the skin was not unusual in such cases. He said that, generally speaking, the President was doing excellently. He drank water freely, passed it freely and the condition of his bowels was satisfactory.

Dr. Roswell Park, who came from the house two minutes later, gave the most positive assurances of satisfaction at the condition of affairs, and in addition gave many of the circumstantial details of the case at this moment to allay any apprehension.

NOT AN "OPERATION."

"What was done last night," said he, "should not be called a 'secondary operation' or any 'operation' at all, as it was nothing of that kind. It was just the ordinary care given to an incision that is called for by the requirements of surgery. In fact, as afffecting the patient, it was little more than opening his vest, so the opening of the incision should not be given an erroneous interpretation. No one of us in particular performed the work, as might be the case if anything in the nature of an operation had occurred, but all of us assisted in what was done. Two stitches were taken out, but it was not necessary to make any new stitches."

At this moment Mayor Diehl drove up and inquired of Dr. Park as to the real condition of the President.

"It could not be better," answered Dr. Park in a most positive manner.

NO ANAESTHETICS USED.

"The President is doing well and everything following what was done last night has been the most natural and satisfactory." Then Dr. Park said:

"No anaesthetics were necessary or were even thought of, as the course adopted was entirely unimportant for anything of that kind.

"There has been no resort to any artificial processes. The President was perfectly conscious and calm, and there was not the slightest depression following the incident.

Dr. Park was asked as to the operation of the bowels following the first administraton of beef juice by the mouth last night.

"The results have been excellent," he replied, "and this morning we have increased the quantity of beef juice fed by the mouth. The bowels have moved, showing that the natural digestive processes are operating and that the wounds in the side of the stomach are not interfering with the proper assimilation of food going into it."

The bulletin dated 9 o'clock was considered very reassuring in every way, bearing out in an official way the statements made by the physicians before its appearance.

CONDITION OF THE WOUND.

Drs. McBurney and Mann emerged from the house together at 10:08 o'clock. Dr. McBurney indicated not the slightest anxiety and he expressed surprise when informed that alarm had followed the issuance of last night's bulletin.

"I think the bulletin was perfectly frank," said he to the press representatives. "We all united in the assurance that no complications would follow."

Dr. McBurney then explained the character of the irritation which had made the reopening of the incision necessary. "It was caused," said he, "just as we stated, by the fact that a piece of the President's coat was carried into the body by the bullet—not far, not over an inch. The bullet then slipped on through the fat. The fragment of the coat was, of course, removed when the operation was performed, but every surgeon understands that even if every foreign particle is removed, tissues exposed to contamination are apt to show irritation. That was so in this case. When the stitches were taken out the wound opened of itself."

"Was any foreign substance found within?"

"Not a particle," he answered emphatically. "The wound was not again sewed up," he added. "It will close and heal by granulation."

"Is the opening of wounds after such an operation unusual?" he was asked.

"Not in gunshot wounds, where foreign substances can be carried into the body," he replied.

"Was any pus found in this case?"

"No, not a suggestion of pus. There was a thin fluid exuded as a result of the inflammation, as was to be expected."

EARLY BULLETINS AND SCENES AT MILBURN HOUSE.

MILBURN HOUSE, Buffalo, Sept. 11.—The following bulletin was issued by the President's [illegible] a. m.

"Secretary to the President."

2:15 a. m.—At 2:15 o'clock everything was quiet around the Milburn house. No one appeared to be stirring within and no one had left the house since the issuance of the midnight bulletin.

5 a. m.—One of the nurses, who has just come from the room, reports that the President is sleeping quietly. The entire private part of the house is very quiet, with the lights burning dimly and no outward evidence of any one moving about.

OPENING OF OUTER WOUND

DR. LEE EXPLAINS

NO CAUSE FOR ALARM

In the opinion of Dr. Edward W. Lee of St. Louis, who was one of the physicians attending President McKinley immediately after the attempted asassination at Buffalo, the partial reopening of the outer wound, because of an irritation of the tissues, presents no reason for alarm over the President's condition.

"The case has been a very serious one from the outset, and is still serious," said Dr. Lee Wednesday morning. "It will remain serious for at least four or five days longer, or until the last danger of inflammatory complications has passed.

"But there is nothing in the bulletins of last night's dressing of the wound to cause any increased apprehension.

"The particles of the President's clothing which entered his body with the bullet were small, but were noticed and removed by the physicians at the time of the first operation. I picked out one of the shreds, from which garment it was impossible to tell. It is not surprising that these foreign substances, even though soon removed, should cause a later inflammation.

"The necessity for a partial reopening was undoubtedly due to a slight irritation of the wound, with a tendency to the formation of what is called a stitch abscess and wound suppuration. This is a condition which often follows, even where the most perfect care is taken in abdominal cutting.

"This condition can not be considered serious unless the suppuration extends deep enough to set up local suppurative peritonitis, which might lead to a general peritonitis, which would be the most serious complication which could ensue.

"It must be taken into consideration that the surgeons in attendance will do all in their power to prevent this.

"The bulletins of this morning contain nothing to suggest more than a slight degree of inflammation in the abdominal wound. After the inflammation has been reduced, the temperature will undoubtedly go to the normal, or nearly so.

"Owing to the time that has expired since the shooting, and to the fact that the attending surgeons have felt justified in administering beef tea by the mouth, it must be supposed that the stomach wounds have healed. There is no indication in the bulletins of any inflammation in the stomach on the visceral peritoneum.

"As for the bullet, it is where it will take care of itself, or where nature will take care of it."

THE WOMAN'S PLEA IN HER OWN BEHALF

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—The following statement was made to the Post-Dispatch representative by Emma Goldman, who is under arrest, charged with conspiracy to assassinate President McKinley:

EMMA GOLDMAN'S STATEMENT.

"I suppose you want to know what I know of this Czolgosz. Well, I had been visiting friends here in Chicago for five weeks during June and July. Part of the time I stopped at the home of Mr. Isaaks, editor of Free Society, at 515 Carroll avenue.

"I left on the evening of July 12 for Buffalo. That was the evening I met this fellow. He had called at the Isaak home. I did not see him until I was ready to go to the station. Then he came up and spoke to me and said he had heard me lecture in Cleveland. I believe he said he was a reader of Free Society.

"When he took the car I sat inside and he stood outside on the platform. I spoke a few words. He was praising my lectures. He did not speak about plots or make any threats against the life of McKinley. I never saw him before and haven't seen him since."

"Do you indorse his act?"

"Of course not. I don't approve of that act because it was foolish. McKinley is the most insignificant President that this republic ever had. He is simply a tool in the hands of wealthy men. There could no good come in killing him. There were causes that drove Czolgosz to assassination. But I am not in a position to tell what they are. I am not here to sit in judgment on men who are driven to desperation by conditions

"I believe in rectifying conditions by intelligence and reason, not violence. But I see no difference between William McKinley and any other man. They are all humans. Conditions and the arrogance and power of wealth and dictating government bring about such acts as this fellow committed."

An emphatic denial met the suggestion that Czolgosz was spurred to his deed by her utterances.

"I don' believe it," she cried, earnestly. "I don't believe he ever said it. I have read the accounts, but I don't believe they are true. I never urged violence. My lectures have never been published in pamphlet form or in a book. They have been printed in periodicals, but they have never advocated murder. I do not favor such means to our end.

"Do you believe that the removal of President McKinley would be a good thing?"

"It is not for me to say whether it is a good thing or not. I am not in his shoes and cannot judge. However, I do not see why you make so much more fuss about the President being shot than over anybody else. He is but a man, and a very weak one at that. McKinley is neither endowed with intelligence nor reason and is owned completely by Mark Hanna. He is a tool in the hands of the wealthy. It seems a very peculiar fact that Mr. Hanna should be the one to discover a plot in all this."

"Don't you believe you are responsible for this man's deed?"

"Certainly not. Don't make me responsible for that, please. I can't tell what the inner workings of his mind is. I'm not enough of a psychologists for that. I didn't even know his name, and I didn't recall him at all when I read the newspapers. It was only when he was mentioned in connection with Mr. Isaak that I recalled him. I tell you there is no plot. Nothing can be found in my lectures, counseling violence or assassination."

his club, inflicting a dangerous wound. The police are looking for other members of Aide's supposed anarchist club and claim they will have several before night.

Dr. Ebersbacher, who was called, refused to dress the man's wound, stating he had never rendered service to an anarchist and never would.

AN ARCH CONSPIRATOR RULES ANARCHISTS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Mr. James N. Trimble of Newark, N. J., who has just completed his work as commissioner for the State of New Jersey to inquire into the killing of King Humbert by Bresci, is quoted as saying:

"My investigation of the Bresci affair has shown plainly that there is a man in this country who is the arch-conspirator in all these assassinations. I cannot now give his name. I sent all the evidence to the Italian government.

"Who was it that gave to Bresci and his colleagues the money necessary for them to accomplish their acts of violence?"

"The answer to this question will give the name of the most dangerous man in America today."

TRIAL BY COURT-MARTIAL MAY BE POSSIBLE.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—"I am not sure, but what it would be possible to try Czolgosz by court-martial," said Fredk. R. Coudert, the well known New York lawyer at his home at Oyster Bay last night. "I am sure that something should be done to protect the President. Such an attack as was made on him ought to be impossible. The anarchists of America will receive the attention of the public now that this has happened, and they will not longer go about threatening law and order.

"We can exclude alien anarchists from America by the passing of laws. If they are citizens, it is another matter. In most states there is law enough to prevent men and women from making speeches that incite men to riot and to attacks upon the government. When the President has recovered we can formulate some definite plan for the regulation of anarchists. There ought to be laws passed to prevent the president from shaking hands with people in a public manner and thereby risking his life."

CABINET WILL MEET THE PRESIDENT FRIDAY AFTERNOON.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 11.—The first reunion of the President's official family will occur at 5 o'clock on Friday afternoon if the present favorable conditions continue. This reunion was arranged between the doctors, Senator Hanna and Secretary of State Hay.

The President's physicians, in response to a direct question put to them by Senator Hanna, said if there were unfavorable symptoms between this and Friday afternoon the members of the cabinet, Senator Hanna and others of the President's most intimate friends could see him for a few minutes. Dr. Park told Mr. Hanna that the President had expressed a wish to see him. The senator told the doctor he wanted to go to Cleveland to attend the reunion of the G. A. R.

"Do you think it would be safe for me to go," asked the senator, "and that I will not be needed here."

"It is perfectly safe for you to return to Cleveland," said Dr. Park. "The indications are that there will be no reversal of present favorable conditions."

"All right," said the senator. "I guess I will go, but I will be back the first thing Friday and I hope to be able to see the President then."

The senator departed for Cleveland yesterday afternoon.

Before going he said to the Post-Dispatch:

"The news could not be better. If the present improvement continues the President will be able to attend to business inside of three weeks. But you may rest assured he will not be permitted to see an official paper until he is fully recovered. I never felt so good in all my life. When I came from Cleveland it seemed to me that I was on the saddest and longest journey a man ever undertook. The train, which, by the way, broke a record or two, seemed to me to just creep along, and I feared for the worst at every stop. Now it seems to me that every American has a most glorious occasion for expressing pleasure at the result."

"How about the anarchist proposition? Do you think the President will urge the enactment of national legislation to suppress the operations of people of the Czolgosz and Goldman types?"

"I don't know about what the President will say. He is a very forgiving man. But I guess the anarchists will be attended to at the proper time. We need not worry about that yet. The thought of the President's friends and advisers is to see him fully restored to health. I shall be back Friday, and I would not be surprised to see him sitting up."

Secretaries Wilson and Hitchcock and Postmaster-General Smith expect to be at their desks in Washington on Thursday. They will return to Buffalo on Friday. Secretary Root will probably remain in Buffalo to direct the operations of the secret service men who are engaged in investigating the connections of Czolgosz.

POPE'S OWN SURGEON PREDICTS RECOVERY.

(Copyright, 1901.)

ROME, Sept. 11.—Prof. G. Mazzoni, the Pope's surgeon, has replied to the hypothetical question of the New York World and Post-Dispatch supplemented by late bulletins on President McKinley's case as follows:

"The last bulletin shows two specially favorable symptoms—moderate respiration and gradual diminution of pulsation—proving that things are progressing well in the abdominal cavity.

"I think the bullet will produce inflammation of muscular tissues near the spine, which will necessitate surgical intervention.

"President McKinley could not be in better hands.

"American surgeons are the pioneers in internal surgery."

Prof. G. Mazzoni is one of formost surgeons of Europe and has for many years, with Dr. Lapponi, been in attendance upon the Pope. About eighteen months ago he performed a difficult and dangerous operation upon his distinguished patient, who rallied completely, notwithstanding his great age.

EMMA GOLDMAN TELLS OF HER RECENT MOVEMENTS AND OF HER VISIT TO ST. LOUIS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—Emma Goldman bade farewell to St. Louis, walked through the Union Depot and took a Wabash train just when the detectives throughout the land were supposed to be looking for her.

Miss Goldman arrived in Chicago Sunday morning, registered in a downtown hotel under an assumed name and yesterday engaged a room in the Sheffield avenue flat where she was arrested. An hour before the woman's arrest the chief of police received from a source outside the department news regarding her whereabouts. Capt. Schuettler, a famous anarchist hunter of Haymarket days, was in the office. Schuettler and Detective Hertz were ordered to go to the flat and bring in all persons found there.

The building is within the shadow of the Sheffield avenue police station and contains three flats. In the top flat, so ran the information, the queen of anarchy was in hiding.

Crawled Along Narrow Ledge.

Capt. Schuettler found the front door locked. There was a consultation and Hertz went upstairs and crawled out of a window from the hall to a narrow ledge that passed windows opening into the flat. He squirmed along the ledge 40 feet from the ground and finally reached a window. Lifting a screen, he dropped into the room. He walked back and opened the hall door for Schuettler. They passed through two rooms and on entering the third were confronted by Miss Goldman.

"Who are you and what do you want?" she asked.

"We are policemen and we want you, Miss Goldman," replied Schuettler.

"I am not Miss Goldman; my name is Thorsen, and I am Swedish," she said.

Schuettler, who had been examining the apartment, picked up a fountain pen and began spelling "Emma Goldman," engraved upon it.

"You are a smart policeman," she laughed.

"Yes, I am Emma Goldman and I was just thinking of going down to police headquarters and giving myself up. If you had come in an hour later I would have been gone. If you will excuse me, while I change my waist, I will go with you."

The suspicious policeman balked at Miss Goldman's desire to close the door of her bedroom during the toilet proceedings. A compromise was reached by leaving the door half open. Finally she emerged, carrying a book, "Toward Democracy," and announced herself ready to go.

"Why, this is all nonsense and I am innocent as a babe, so far as conspiring to kill the President or inspiring others to do it," she said to Schuettler.

Coolly Read Book En Route to Station.

The trip to headquarters was made in a street car. Miss Goldman read her book, and once looked up to the two men sitting beside her and said:

"Do I look like the woman they paint me?"

In a jaunty white sailor hat, white waist, blue skirt, belt and necktie, she looked anything but bloodthirsty. She was calm and good-humored when the city hall was reached. Ushered into the chief's office, she sat down and began reading her book. Chief O'Neill summoned Mayor Harrison and an inquisition began which lasted an hour. Although she maintained her self-control she could not refrain at times from weeping.

Soon after her arrest she sent the following telegram:

H. Hochstein, 213 Joseph avenue, Rochester, N. Y.:

Don't worry. Am arrested. Will be out soon. Comfort mother. E.

Miss Goldman told her story as follows: "While in Buffalo I stoped with Hattie Lang and left for the home of my sister in Rochester at noon on July 15. I stayed in Rochester until Aug. 17 or 18, and during the time I was there I wrote five letters to Havel, which I suppose are now in the hands of the police. From Rochester I went to a number of other cities, accompanied by relatives. I was taking a short vacation and visiting my friends. I stopped in Buffalo, Pittsburg, Cincinnati and St. Louis. I came to Chicago, as I intended, and was to have gone from there to De-New York. In these various cities I sold office supplies to pay my expenses.

Heard News on St. Louis Street Car.

"I first heard of the President's attempted assassination Friday afternoon. The newsboys of St. Louis were crying it. I was riding on a Tower Grove car and was on the way to my boarding house, at 1350 South Thirteenth street. I did not buy a paper, because I did not believe the news to be true. They print so many things that are not true. This is especially the case whenever a ruler travels. They are always finding plots and bombs on those occasions.

"I did not read a paper until Saturday noon. I had got through with my business and when I went to lunch I thought I would see what was causing all the excitement. I never was more surprised in my life than when I saw that I had been connected with the affair.

"That afternoon I sent a telegram to some friends in Chicago, asking if the Isaaks were in trouble. Newspapers said they were under arrest, but I would not beli[illegible] them. I [illegible] to get information [illegible] the truth. I rec[illegible] stating that the newspaper account was true; that the Isaaks were being held.

Left St. Louis Saturday Night.

"This information caused me to determine to come to Chicago and help them if I could. I left St. Louis Saturday night by the Wabash and arrived at the Polk street depot about 8 o'clock Sunday morning. I was dressed as I am today, except that I was not wearing my glasses. I do not always wear them. They become painful after I wear them a while. I had a wrap and small handbag, which I gave to the porter. I came from the train with a crowd. A woman preceded me and a woman followed me. I saw a detective—you know you can't miss them if you ever had any experience with them.

"He was about as intelligent as the usual one of his profession. He looked at the woman ahead and the woman behind, but never a glance did he give to me. I called a cab and went to a hotel, the name of which I do not care to give. I registered under an assumed name, so it's no use to try to find the place.

"Sunday I walked about town and Monday I went shoping at Field's, walked up and down State street and passed the city hall two or three times. Monday evening I went to No 303 Sheffield avenue. I had know Mr. Norris in a business way. I did not know his mother or sister. I told him the situation and asked him to take me in. This he did and said he was glad to give me shelter. I do not know even if he is a believer in my faith. I never talked to him about it. I simply met him when he was a traveling salesman and I have know him about a year. I could think of no place else to go, so I went there, sure of a welcome.

Intended to Give Herself Up.

"If the police had been half an hour later I would have given them a surprise. I intended as soon as I saw that the women arrested at Isaaks' were turned loose, to give myself up. I knew if the police wanted me it was only a question of a short time when they would get me.

"I was amused when Capt. Schuettler and his detectives came. I was dressed in a loose wrapper, and it occurred to me to have some fun with them. I wanted to see how smart they were.

"'We are looking for Miss Goldman' said the handsome Captain.

"'I do not know her?' I replied in a Sweedish accent. 'I am sure there is no such woman here.'

"'And who are you?' he asked.

"'My name is Thorsen' I answered. 'I am a domestic here.'

"Then he began a search in the closet and under the bed and all over the premises. When nothing had been found except a penholder with my name on the Captain said he would have to leave one of his detectives with me until he could make a further search. I took a good look at the detective and told the Captain that he need go no further, that I was Miss Goldman. He allowed me to dress, and I came to the station with them."

Mayor Harrison Questioned Her.

Mayor Harrison here said:

"Miss Goldman, are you sure that fellow Czolgosz did not talk plots and assassinations to you."

"I am certain he did not," came the impetuous reply, "but I heard he talked 'plots' and 'inner circles' to Mr. Isaak and for that reason was denounced as a spy."

"Did any person write to you about this man?" asked the mayor.

Miss Goldman answered in the negative.

"Suppose a Democrat shot the President," Miss Goldman suddenly burst forth, "would you arrest every Democrat in the land and drag their children to prison as you have done with us?"

"Why did you come back here?" she was asked.

"I came to get the Isaaks out. I was at the house at 303 Sheffield avenue since yesterday. I wanted to know if bail would be allowed to get them out of prison."

"Where would you get the money to bail them out?"

"I have seen certain people."

"Who were they?"

"You would not expect me to tell that," she replied with a smile.

"I have nothing to fear from your officers and your law," Miss Goldman continued.

"I did not hide from you more than suited my own convenience. I went about the neighborhood where I was staying and yesterday I came downtown. I also walked around the city hall and I saw your policemen, but they did not see me. It speaks volumes for the freedom of this country to see myself and friends are deprived of their liberty, simply because of the right of free speech."

Miss Goldman almost burst into tears at this point

She Wanted Something to Eat.

Then she smiled on all about her and said: "Mr. Mayor, if the state can afford it, I would like to have something to eat. I am awfully hungry. I have eaten nothing since 7 o'clock this morning."

"You shall have a good dinner, because you are an obliging little woman," said Chief O'Neill, "but, first," continued the chief, "you are such a good-looking woman I really must have a picture of you." The woman smiled, and said, "You shall have it."

Then she burst into tears, but controlled herself in a moment. A carriage was called and Capt. Schuettler escorted his prisoner to a restaurant, where she ate a hearty dinner. From there she was driven to the Harrison street police station, where she sat for two negatives. Then she was turned over to the matron and given the best room in the annex.

Once in the matron's room she again gave way to tears, but soon composed herself and received all callers.

Question of Woman's Trial.

Obstacles confront the federal and state authorities in Chicago in the possible prosecution of Emma Goldman. It is the opinion of several lawyers that she cannot be taken for trial in New York unless she and Czolgosz are charged with the offense under the federal statutes. The suggestion that the assassin must be tried under the state laws of New York for assault with intent to kill, would, it is said, preclude the possibility of Miss Goldman's being extradited as an accessory before the fact, as her alleged incendiary statements were not made in New York and is not a fugitive from justice from that state.

It is stated, however, that she and Czolgosz might be charged with an offense under section 5508 of federal statutes, which fixes a ten year term of imprisonment and a $5000 fine for two or more persons who conspire to injure any citizen in the exercise of any right secured to him by the constitution and laws of the United States. The enforcement of this statute against Miss Goldman and Czolgosz would, it is said, permit of the former's extradition from any state.

She Was Betrayed By a Woman.

The "tip" that caused the arrest of Miss Goldman came from a woman. She lives close to the Norris flat in Sheffield avenue, and while not an anarchist, is acquainted with many of them. She saw Emma Goldman enter the flat yesterday, and while not certain of her identity, suspected it. This morning she saw the Goldman woman again, and instantly hastened to police headquarters with the information.

Charles Goldsmith Norris with his mother and sister, Miss Stella Thorndale, occupy the flat. They have lived in it since May, and have been puzzles to their neighbors. Norris is an insurance agent 29 years of age.

"I have known Miss Goldman about a year," he said. "I met her when she was here in June. When she asked me for a room I took her in."

"Why did you not notify the police," asked the chief. "You knew she was wanted."

"I don't want to talk about it until I consult an attorney," said Norris. "I did not and don't think now that she is guilty of anything."

Percival Verral, a clerk, and Miss Edith Unealt, a relative of Norris, also lived in the flat. Norris was the only one arrested.

MEDICAL TERMS USED IN THE PRESIDENT'S CASE

The meaning of the following medical terms so frequently used in describing the condition of President McKinley maynot be clear to the average newspaper reader. Here are the definitions:

SEPTICAEMIA OR SEPTIC POISONING.—An internal condition produced in this case by a wound and resulting in possible blood poisoning. In every wound substances are produced which are absorbed into the blood and which when sufficiently active manifest their action in high fever and general disturbance of the constitution. Blood poisoning, usually developing, if at all, three or four days after a wound is received, generally ends fatally. The term septic poisoning indicates absence of abscesses; pyaemia indicates the presence of abscesses. In the septic form the temperature may reach 103 or more and the fever be fermentative. In pyaemie blood clots form. The substances developing from blood poisoning may be capable of multiplying in blood, or they may be chemical substances, which are produced by the bacteria or by degenerative processes. When blood poisoning has developed its duration until death comes depends largely on the constitution of the patient and his condition at the time of injury. The character of his medical attendance has also much to do with his chances for surviving.

PERITONITIS.—Inflammation of the peritoneum, a membrane or lining covering the abdominal cavity. The popular designation is "inflammation of the bowels." What is called traumatic peritonitis is the result of wounds, bruises or surgical operations. When peritonitis is acutely developed, from three to five days after the injury, there is painful breathing, great abdominal pain and suffering. Peritonitis often results from wounds owing to either imperfect surgical attendance or introduction by the wound of foreign substances into the system. High temperature follows and a quickened pulse. When the pulse is about 130 to 140 in the case of a patient it is supposed to indicate peritonitis symptoms. When it reaches 160 and 180 death generally follows.

AUTHORITIES SAY THEY KNOW OF NO CONSPIRACY.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 11.—The public here now feels free to take up Czolgosz and all the questions that center about him.

It is in vain that the authorities, federal and local, frankly explain that they know of no plot, no conspiracy; that they are simply reaching out in every direction to learn all there is to be known about anarchists.

The imaginative continue to insist upon the plot and try to make a mystery of a very simple and a very crude matter—the crime of vain, notoriety-loving Czolgosz trying to avenge himself upon life for having refused to give him freely and without labor that which others work for.

It is unlikely that there will be any conflict between the state and federal authorities over the question of jurisdiction. If the federal authorities can lawfully take jurisdiction and can give Czolgosz a longer term of imprisonment, they will get him.

If the state authorities can accomplish just as much as the federal authorities—and this at present seems likely—Czolgosz will remain a state prisoner.

President Cannot Be Made Testify.

Wherever he is tried, Mr. McKinley will, of course, be the chief witness against him. No court has the power to summon the president of the United States, at least that was the precedent asserted by President Jefferson in the impeachment proceedings, against Vice-President Aaron Burr, and it has never been upset.

Mr. McKinley may either go to court in person or have his testimony taken by some sort of commission.

It is not out of keeping with his character that he will go in person, insisting that his office does not exclude him from any ordinary duties of a private citizen. Again the pressure of public business or the state of his health may compel him to testify by deposition.

In either event a unique proceeding is inevitable, one that will arouse the most intense interest throughout the world, one with few if any parallels.

At the moment the writer does not recall a single case in all history of the head of a great state testifying against the man who attempted to assassinate him.

No Punishment Is Adequate.

The deeper the lawyers go into the matter of punishing the anarchist leaders, who by teaching and urging and subtle suggestion bring about such crimes as this of Czolgosz, the more puzzled they are and the more regretful at the inadequacy of existing statutes.

In spite of assaults upon President Jackson and the assassination of President Garfield—Lincoln's assassination was covered by the laws against political conspiracies to murder—nothing was done to secure the adequate punishment of assailants of high officials. Neither state nor federal laws recognize any difference between attacks upon the citizen as a citizen and attacks upon the citizen as a representative of the government.

As for anarchy, the federal and state laws against incitements to violence have been relied upon heretofore. There is no special legislation directed against the special offense. And the problem is how to word a law so that the authorities will be vigilant and at the same time discreet in its enforcement, not only for a few months after such an awakening as the present, but at all times.

Vice-President Roosevelt has definitely declared himself against the abandonment of public receptions by high officials. Nothing could have been more forcible than his remarks to the two laborers who stopped him in the street to shake hands with him yesterday:

"The public officials must rely upon you men to guard them. No isolated, unforeseeable and unpreventable acts of violence should interfere with the democratic custom of free interviews between the people and public servants."

He takes the position which Augustus Cesar took when he became consul, that to go about carefully guarded, to be secluded and full of suspicion, is to make life an intolerable burden. He thinks that any elaborate hedging in would not protect, but would only do harm.

Declares There Was No Plot.

One of the detectives in President McKinley's party told the Post-Dispatch that there were many reasons for the belief that no anarchist society planned the attempt to take the President's life.

"One reason alone," he declared, "is sufficient to show that the crime was not prepared in advance by any considerable number of persons. That is the fact that Czolgosz bought the revolver in Buffalo. If this scheme had been worked out in another city, and he had been sent there to commit the deed, he would come armed and would have been supplied with a true and reliable weapon in advance. On the contrary, he arrived without a weapon, and bought a cheap and unreliable one here."

WOULD MAKE ANARCHY CLASS AS TREASON.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 11.—Representative Metcalf of the Third California district proposes to introduce a strong immigration restriction measure at the next session of Congress. He says:

"No anarchist should be allowed to land on our shores and it should be regarded as treason and treated as such for any man or woman to make an attack upon the life of the President or vice-president of the United States, or to advocate, encourage or approve the assassination or attempted assassination of the President or vice-president of the United States."

Resolutions to this effect have been adopted by the Merchants' Association of this city.

THEY PRAYED FOR THE PRESIDENT.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 11.—It is estimated that fully 75,000 persons attended the services for the recovery of President McKinley in the various churches in this city in accordance with the proclamation of the governor and mayor of Baltimore. The most notable gatherings were those in the Associated Congregational Church and the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Messiah. In the former church Democratic and Republican leaders were among those who sat on the platform. Highly eulogistic addresses were delivered by Mayor Hayes, United States Senator McComas and Rev. Dr. Hugh Johnston, the President's former pastor in Washington. The mayor, who was a Confederate soldier, had previously offered a public prayer for the President in his own church.

Fifteen hundred persons attended the services in the Church of the Messiah. Among them were a majority of the members of the Stock Exchange and the Chamber of Commerce, and many employes of the postoffice and of the financial organizations downtown. The governor's proclamation met with a hearty observance throughout the state.

MRS. M'KINLEY KNOWS, AND WITH GREAT BRAVERY BEARS THE SHOCK.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 11.—Secretary Cortelyou stated officially today that Mrs. McKinley knows that her husband was shot by an anarchist.

"Mrs. McKinley knows," said he, "that her husband was shot and very seriously wounded. I hardly think that she knows how dangerously, but she knows that he is seriously hurt.

"She has borne up all through it like the American gentlewoman that she is. This very fact alone has helped the President largely toward his rapid recovery. We are all proud of the way in which she has acted.

"We all know that Mrs. McKinley has been a semi-invalid since her illness in California, but she has proven that she has ten times the reserve strength that anybody credited her with.

"Mrs. McKinley received the news that her husband was wounded about 8:30 last Friday evening, a few minutes after the President was brought home to Mr. Milburn's house in the electric ambulance. She was asleep at the time, but Dr. Rixey went in and awakened her as gently as he could and broke the news.

"By this time Mr. McKinley," said Mr. Cortelyou, "was in bed and fairly comfortable. Dr. Rixey brought Mrs. McKinley in at once.

"She was magnificent and bore up so bravely and was so cheerful and confident that the President became impressed with her own courage."

Mrs. McKinley was in high spirits all day yesterday and she so continues today. For the first time Mrs. Milburn, her hostess, went upstairs and had half an hour's chat with her guest.

"Mrs. Milburn found Mrs. McKinley most cheerful," said Mr. Milburn. "Mrs. Milburn tells me that she is delighted with Mrs. McKinley's elegant condition of mind and body. There is absolutely no danger that she will break down.

Mrs. McKinley paid her daily visit to the bedside of her husband. The President was in high spirits when he saw his wife coming into the room and talked until Dr. Rixey cut the interview short.

The President protested, but it was no use, and when Dr. Rixey came out with Mrs. McKinley he was smiling broadly at the indignation of the President because his wife had been unceremoniously taken away.

CZOLGOSZ WAS ONCE CALLED CZOLGOWSKI.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 11.—According to the statement of a canvasser of the Cleveland Directory Co. the parents of Leon Czolgosz, the man who shot President McKinley, are Russian Poles. The canvasser has covered the foreign settlement in Newburg for a number of years, and he says he knows of what he speaks. "In 1896," said the canvasser, "the Czolgosz family of today gave their names as Czolgowski."

TUBE WORKS CLOSED DOWN

Fires Drawn at All McKeesport Plants.

THE MEN GROWING UGLY

SEVERAL ASSAULTS, ONE ON A WOMAN, REPORTED.

All Firemen and Other Employers of the Works Discharged and Told to Wait Further Instructions.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Sept. 11.—No attempt whatever was made this morning to start the big tube mill at McKeesport, although there was a large crowd of strikers around the mill to keep out any men who tried to go back. After the lively scenes of yesterday none of the employes showed the least inclination to return, but even if they had, no work was open for them and the attempt had been useless.

Total suspension of the National tube mill and other plants of the National Tube Co. will likely follow the two unsuccessful attempts to resume operations—those of yesterday and Monday.

Fires have been drawn at all the McKeesport plants of the National Tube Co. and the firemen and a few others who have been doing odd jobs about the mill have been notified not to return to work until further notice. The only people about the mill this morning are the watchmen.

Fires have also been drawn at the National rolling mill and at the Monongahela steel works. This was done last night and all the men except the watchmen were sent home.

Scarcity of puddlers and finishers and the determined stand of the strikers are said to have caused the change in the plans of the company officials.

The strikers are growing ugly and numerous assaults are reported within the past 48 hours. This morning Mrs. Peter Snyder was assaulted by a foreigner while carrying lunch to her husband in the National rolling mill. Her dress was torn and the dinner pail carried off. Mike Culovitch, who, with his 20 boarders, worked in the tube mill, was attacked this morning and warned that his house would be burned if he did not stop working.

COOLER WEATHER COMING.

It Will Probably Bring Rain and a Small Windstorm in Its Train.

Dr. Hyatt says cooler weather is on the way to St. Louis.

It will arrive Thursday afternoon or evening, he declares.

But it may be accompanied by rain and possibly a windstorm, according to the same authority.

"Heavy rains and high winds occurred Tuesday night in Iowa, Nebraska and South Dakota, with the storm center about Sioux City," the weather observer says.

"The rain and wind are moving towards St. Louis and we may get a taste of them. All we will probably get, though, is a little more rain."

The temperature Wednesday is just about as it has been for several days. The thermometer showed 70 at 7 o'clock and 87 at 11 o'clock.

Mrs. Carlson Seeks Daughter.

Mrs. W. Carlson of Merrill, Wis., is in St. Louis searching for her daughter, Mrs. Minnie Nelson, from whom she has not heard for eighteen months.

Mrs. Carlson is the guest of Rev. C. O. Isaacson of 1201 Armstong avenue. He is the pastor of the Swedish Congregational Church.

When Mrs. Carlson last heard from her daughter she was keeping lodgers at 1432 Mississippi avenue. Mrs. Nelson had a little daughter, June, who is now 6 years old.

Mrs. Carlson will remain in St. Louis a week in the hope of getting news of Mrs. Nelson.

William Peterson Disappeared.

William Peterson, 38 years old, a carpenter, disappeared from his lodgings in the house of Mrs. H. De Lancey, 1518 Washington avenue about three weeks ago.

Peterson had been ill and, at 11:30 o'clock Saturday morning, Aug. 31, left the house. He had in his possession about $50.

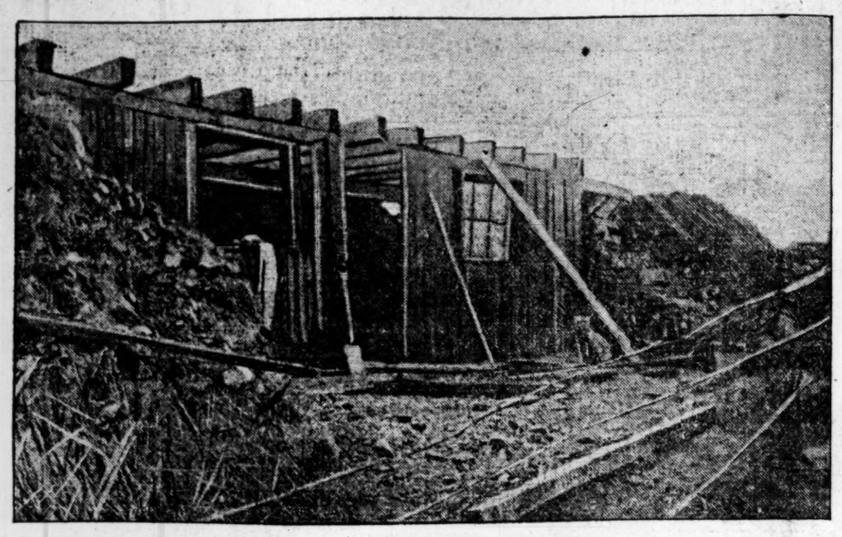

He came to St. Louis five years ago from Pittsburg.

It is not known that he has any relatives in this country. He was reticent and never spoke of his family.

Peterson is about 6 feet tall, has blue-gray eyes, thin brown hair and a reddish brown mustache. He belonged to Carpenters' Union No. 73.

POLICE COURT RELEASES ANARCHIST TREBITCH

Cave, which Anarchist Trebitch has built on James Walker's land, northwest of Carondelet Park. It is 12x20 feet. Trebitch says he has as much right to the property as Walker. —Pitographed by the Post-Dispatch.

Judge Zimmerman Fines Him $5 for Stabbing James D. Walker, His Landlord, but Stays Execution Pending the Defendant's Good Behavior.

"I am an arnichist!" cried he,
Too ignorant to pronounce it right;
One patriotic bruiser free
Then punched him till he was a sight,
Until this anarchistic jay
Was much in need of ar-ni-ca.

Leopold Trebitch, the first avowed anarchist arrested in St. Louis since the President was shot, was tried in the Wyoming Street Police Court Wednesday, fined $5 and later released on good behavior.

Trebitch was arrested Monday for stabbing James D. Walker of 3341 Wilmington road with a lance during a quarrel over dogs.

Believing that Trebitch could give information of the meeting place of St. Louis anarchists, Capt. Pickel of the Carondelet Police Station sent him to Chief Desmond's sweat box at the Four Courts.

He was sent to a dungeon and, Tuesday, he was confronted by Chief Desmond.

The anarchist checkmated the chief. He withstood the ordeal of the sweat box and passed through a scathing third degree of interrogation without giving only such information as suited him.

The police sent Trebitch before Judge Zimmermann Wednesday, charged with disturbing Walker's peace.

Trebitch sat in the courtroom, patient, silent, but defiant.

His face, broad and hairy, did not show fear. In his blue eyes the wild fanaticism of his nature was revealed.

A woolen shirt, showing his strong, broad and unwashed neck, and overalls girded with a cord, constituted his costume.

In the 57 years of his life he has roved the world. For two years he has lived in a hut. Two dogs and a great black cat shared his home. Recently he has built a cave, 12 by 20 feet, which is ready for occupation.

Photographed by the Post-Dispatch.

Anarchist Leopold Trebitch, who was fined $5 in the Wyoming Street Police Court Wednesday for striking James D. Walker, was freed on a promise of good behavior.

THE GADFLY'S FUNERAL

CHARLES R. MACKENZIE, THE TURF WRITER, LAID TO REST.

BURIAL WAS IN CALVARY.

Services Largely Attended by Race Track Officials and His Newspaper Associates.

The funeral of Charles R. Mackenzie, the well-known local turf writer, who died Monday morning from injuries received in a street car accident, took place Wednesday morning from the undertaking establishment of Farley & Wand, 1012 North Vandeventer avenue.

The interment was in Calvary cemetery.

At the undertaking rooms the services were simple, but were eloquent of the regard in which Mr. Mackenzie was held by his friends and associates.

The casket containing the remains was almost hidden beneath the beautiful floral offerings.

There was a large cross of myrtle entwined with a broken band of white carnations, a gift from employes of the Delmar racetrack. There were other equally beautiful emblems in various designs, one bearing the inscription, "The Gadfly," the nom de plume by which Mr. Mackenzie was known.

Friends of the late sporting writer in various walks of life, including newspaper associates, racetrack officials and employes, called to take a last look at the features. A number of women were also among the mourners who assembled to pay tribute to Mr. Mackenzie's memory. All expressed sorrow at the tragic circumstances attending his death.

Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Richard M. Johnson, who knew Mr. Mackenzie intimately in life, delivered the address. He spoke eloquently of the good qualities of Mr. Mackenzie, and referred feelingly to the regard in which he was held by those who knew him intimately.

"He was good to everybody," said Mr. Johnson. "The highest tribute I can pay him is that his only enemy lies in the casket by my side."

The speaker commented on the strange circumstances that the last of the hundreds of horses "tipped" by "The Gadfly" to win, happened to be named "Peaceful."

He told of the fond regard in which Mr. Mackenzie was held by everyone about the race tracks, even down to the stable boys; and related that a stable boy at the Delmar track gave one of the officials the only dollar he possessed Tuesday with instructions that it go to the fund to buy a floral offering for "The Gadfly."

The pallbearers were: Edward L. Mockler, Thomas M. Costello, Gaty Pallen, Charles H. Haughton, A. H. Spink, Jr., John Lahlve, Charles C. Jones and E. L. Boole.

LOVE STRONGER THAN RELIGION

Miss Mary V. Stuyvesant Weds William A. Denvir Despite Parental and Other Obstacles.

A romance proving that love is religion, or stronger than religion, culminated Wednesday morning in the marriage of Miss Mary V. Stuyvesant and William A. Denvir, at St. Xavier's Catholic Church, Grand avenue and Lindell boulevard.

Miss Stuyvesant was an Episcopalian. Mr. Denvir is a Catholic. The pair had been lovers for more than a year, but the family of the bride made vigorous objection to the match, because Mr. Denvir was a Catholic.

Miss Stuyvesant is a daughter of M. S. Stuyvesant of 5455 Maple avenue. Mr. Denvir has resided with his father, John B. Denvir, at 3409 West Pine boulevard.

Mr. Denvir formerly was in the insurance business, but is now connected with the Drummond typewriter office in the Century building.

When he asked Mr. Stuyvesant for the hand of his daughter, friends aver, he was refused on the ground that he was a Catholic. It is stated by friends that the Stuyvesants investigated the antecedents of Mr. Denvir and found that his family connections and his personal habits were excellent. The only objection was on account of his religious faith. For that reason they opposed the match.

Miss Stuyvesant, however, was not inclined to let religion stand in the way of her happiness. She espoused the Catholic faith.

Thus it came about that the young couple were married Wednesday morning by a Catholic priest, and it is said that there will be a celebration of the wedding at the Denvir home Wednesday evening.

"Biggest and Best."

The American Newspaper Directory, Geo. P. Rowell & Co., New York, issued a list of papers, one from each state, selected by them, upon investigation, as the largest circulated paper in the state. The St. Louis Post-Dispatch, as everybody knows, has the post of honor for the State of Missouri in this list. George P. Rowell & Co. might have truthfully added, the largest in any state between the Mississippi river and Pacific Ocean.

AMERICAN WON CHIEF TROPHY.

Hyde Defeated Canadian and Irish Riflemen at International Meet.

The annual meeting of the National Rifle Association of America ended Tuesday.

Frank Hyde of New York won the chief trophy and Dr. J. C. Sellers of Ireland, was a close second, being only three points behind.

Maj. Millner and Thomas Caldwell, both of the Ulster Rifle Association, tied, but, as Caldwell had the better score at the 1000-yard range, he secured third place.

Match rifles were used by the Irishmen and some of the Americans, while the Canadians generally used the military rifle.

The meeting was a success.

Doricles Won St. Leger.

LONDON, Sept. 11.—Doricles won the St. Leger stakes at Doncaster today.

Lipton's Representative Arrives.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Robert Rure, the Scottish yachting expert, who is to represent Sir Thomas Lipton on board the Columbia during the America's cup races, arrived in New York today on board the Oceanic, from Liverpool.

Quite a colony of Scotch farmers have settled near Knebworth, Hertfordshire, England and by their methods of farming have transformed what used to be a very poor district into a tolerably good one. One of their objects—and they seem to be working in unison—is to produce hay, milk and potatoes for the London markets, and they appear to be doing well.

CAR STRUCK DR. MING'S RIG

Physician Escaped With Slight Injuries but His Horse Was Hurt and Vehicle Demolished.

Dr. E. R. Ming, who lives at the southeast corner of Pendleton and Finney avenues, considers his escape from death in a Suburban trolley car accident Wednesday morning almost miraculous.

Dr. Ming was driving across the Suburban tracks at Pendleton avenue, going northward, to his office. His buggy was a stanhope, a splendid vehicle, drawn by a spanking bay, in which the doctor took great pride.

As he drove upon the westbound track the buggy was struck by car No. 140. Horse and vehicle and the physician were mixed up and dragged 30 feet by the car. The fender caught them and held them firmly.

The whole driving outfit, with Dr. Ming tangled in the wreck, was dragged westward, past the platform, until it struck a telegraph pole and was disengaged from the fender.

The motorman then backed his car. Dr. Ming was under the fender, with his horse lying perilously close and his buggy smashed to pieces, the heavy cushioned top having fallen upon him. The horse was badly hurt.

Those who witnessed the accident rushed forward, expecting to find the occupant of the buggy dead.

They discovered that Dr. Ming was alive and conscious. He was taken out of the wreck to the office of Dr. Alonzo R. Kieffer, 4268 West Belle place.

Dr. Kieffer and other physicians in the vicinity examined Dr. Ming and found that he was not seriously injured. He had received a severe cut on the left eyelid, several bruises and cuts on the face, and a painful bruise on the calf of the left leg.

MEN WHO FOUGHT MARCHED AGAIN

Vast Crowd Saw the G. A. R. Parade

EIGHT MILES IN LENGTH

FOR FIVE HOURS THE VETERANS OF '61 PASSED ALONG IN LINE.

Heartfelt Tribute of Cheers Met the Battle-Scarred Men as They Tramped Along the Streets of Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 11.—Notwithstanding lowering clouds that constantly threatened a downpour of rain throughout the morning, the grand parade of the thirty-fifth national encampment of the G. A. R. was viewed by almost the entire population of 100,000 people of this city and nearly doubled by the visitors.

The parade started soon after 10 o'clock and moved for five hours. Ohio, the last in line, did not start until long after noon.

Before half the procession had formed the advance departments had already finished and disbanded. The thousands of people in the reviewing stands and on the grandstands which lined Bond street, in the Court of Honor, saw a continuous parade six or eight miles long pass. The enthusiasm cannot be portrayed in a word picture.

It was a spontaneous, heartfelt, genuine, enthusiastic tribute on the part of the patriotic and appreciative people of the sacrifice made and danger faced by the patriotsw ho 40 years ago weided the country in renewed bonds of love and union, which have resulted in the greatest and most progressive nation the world has ever known.

As the ranks of the veterans passed, state by state, department by department, cheers and applause were renewed, and the sight of the tattered battle flags filled the hearts of the people almost to the point of bursting.

TOO ILL TO BE IN COURT.

Capt. Pierre Ladd Failed to Produce His Daughter on Zachritz's Order.

Capt. Pierre Berthold Ladd failed to have his daughter, Pelagie B. Ladd, in court Wednesday morning, in accordance with the order of Judge Zachritz, issued a week ago.

Capt. Ladd himself was present with his attorney, J. C. Sheppard of Ripley County.

Mr. Sheppard explained to the court that the child was ill and could not be brought here from her father's home, in Ripley County, a distance of 200 miles.

Judge Zachritz took no action in the case other than to set it for a hearing a week from Thursday.

Judge Zachritz's order to Capt. Ladd to produce the child in court was made on the application of Mrs. Edwina Bixby-Ladd-Pim, the divorced wife of Capt. Ladd.

Mrs. Ladd-Pim was granted the custody of her children when she secured the divorce. She allowed Capt. Ladd to take Pelagie to Ripley County for a visit, and she contends that he failed to return the child to her Sept. 1, according to agreement.

Capt. Ladd's attorney declared Wednesday that the only reason the child had not been returned was because she was too ill to be moved.

Mrs. Ladd-Pim was in court Wednesday morning with her husband, Dr. Louis T. Pim, to whom she was married July 9, a few weeks after securing her divorce from Capt. Ladd.

Piano Dealer Was Stricken With Heart Disease on the Street.

Edward Nennstiel, a pioneer piano dealer, fell dead Wednesday morning in front of 1012 Olive street.

He was 78 years of age and had been a resident of St. Louis for nearly 26 years.

Of late years he had not been engaged in active business. He boarded at 3024 Westminster place.

His only surviving relatives are two sisters living in Germany and two nieces by marriage, Mrs. T. B. Baker and Mrs. Fannie Shepard, both of Chicago.

Mr. Nennstiel had been a sufferer from heart failure and this is believed to have caused his death. He was prominent in church work, being for many years chairman of the board of stewards of St. John's Methodist Church. He belonged to the Tuscan Masonic lodge.

He was a native of Germany and came to America in his young manhood. The funeral arrangements have not been made.

VIOLIN PROVOKED A FIGHT.

Musician Horn's Melody Was Not Appreciated by Mues.

George Horn, who plays the violin nightly in his room at 2101A Arsenal street, and William Mues, who lives at the same number without the A, and who prefers sleep to melody, were defendants in Judge Sidener's court Wednesday morning.

Both were charged with disturbing the peace, and the appearance of each made a sufficient case against the other.

Testimony brought out the fact that the musician had used only his fists in bruising his neighbor's countenance, and that Mues had been armed with a poker.

"It was all because of his playing that fiddle," said Mues to the judge. "It got so we couldn't stand it. Every night from 9 to 11—those were his hours, and there was no sleep for us until he finished. When I spoke to him about it, we got to fighting."

Horn was in a mood to make concessions. "I won't play so late again, judge," he promised.

"Can you quit at 10 every night?" the court asked.

With some signs of reluctance, the violinist consented.

"If you could hear me play you would think they had no cause at all," he told the court.

When Horn had agreed to stop practising at 10 every night, Judge Sidener imposed, but stayed, a fine of $5 on each of the men.

GRANDJURY WANTED BUSINESS.

East St. Louis Inquisitors Took Up Cutting Without Any Delay.

The East St. Louis grandjury, in its anxiety for something to do, took an unusual step Wednesday morning.

Within two hours after Timothy McElligott had been cut by Frank Parks, it sent a bailiff to Chief of Police Hauss with a request that the witnesses be sent to its quarters.

Parks had not had his preliminary examination, and it had not been decided what charge to place against him, as there was a probability that McElligott would die during the day.

Chief Hauss refused to comply with the request.

The grandjury has had nothing to do for a week because of the practice of East St. Louis Justices in sending East St. Louis cases to the Belleville grandjury. The members of the jury thought they saw a chance to get ahead of the justices.

Warrant Against Miss Slupsky.

Miss Hannah Slupsky, daughter of Jacob Slupsky of 2834 Olive street, and Johanna Page, a domestic in the employ of the Slupsky family, were charged with assault and battery in a warrant issued Wednesday morning.

The complaint was made by Miss Ida Pierson, who makes her home with Mrs. Harry B. Harmon at 2830 Olive street. Mrs. Harmon is the widow of Justice Harry B. Harmon, who for many years was justice of the peace in North St. Louis. Since her husband's death she has conducted a notion store on Olive street. She rented from Slupsky. When, a week ago, she notified him that she was going to move, she said bad feelings were aroused.

Miss Pierson had nothing to do with this controversy. Tuesday evening, she alleges, she stepped out of doors and as she did so she was beset by Miss Slupsky and Page, who knocked her down and blackened both her eyes with their fists. She says that they kicked her about the body until she was seriously injured.

No External Symptoms.

The blood may be in bad condition, yet with no external signs, no skin eruption or sores to indicate it. The symptoms in such cases being a variable appetite, poor digestion, an indescribable weakness and nervousness, loss of flesh and a general run-down condition of the system—clearly showing the blood has lost its nutritive qualities, has become thin and watery. It is in just such cases that S. S. S. has done some of its quickest and most effective work by building up the blood and supplying the elements lacking to make it strong and vigorous.

"My wife used several bottles of S. S. S. as a blood purifier and to tone up a weak and emaciated system, with very marked effect by way of improvement.

"We regard it a great tonic and blood purifier."—J. F. DUFF, Princeton, Mo.

S. S. S. is the greatest of all tonics, and you will find the appetite improves at once, strength returns, and nervousness vanishes as new rich pure blood once more circulates through all parts of the system.

S. S. S. is the only purely vegetable blood purifier known. It contains no minerals whatever. Send for our free book on blood and skin diseases and write our physicians for any information or advice wanted. No charge for medical advice.

BIGGEST WEST OF THE MISSISSIPPI.

HOLDING UP ST. LOUIS.

The vicious purpose of Speaker Cronin's combine in the House of Delegates which is holding up measures necessary to the making of New St. Louis and the preparation of the city for the World's Fair has been made clear to the people of St. Louis by the Post-Dispatch.

Mayor Wells and President Phillips of the Board of Public Improvements threw new light on the subject in Tuesday's Post-Dispatch. Speaking of the combine and its reason for existence, Mayor Wells said:

It has not rejected or held up bills because they are bad bills, but simply for the reason that the combine members can't get what they want. They are using their offices to attempt the enforcement of unreasonable demands.

The combine is trying to club the administration into subservience to its demand by refusing to pass measures necessary to the betterment of St. Louis and the protection of the lives and limbs of citizens.

What do the people think of that sort of work on the part of their officials?

President Phillips is more specific than the mayor in exposing the motive of Speaker Cronin and his combine in obstructing public business.

Speaker Cronin has tried to run this office, but with poor success.

As the head of the Fair Roofing Co., he has tried to dictate contract prices to the board.

All contracts under $100 can be allowed without advertising for bids The Fair Roofing Co.—or Speaker Cronin, it is all the same whether the delegate or the firm's name is mentiond—wanted to control these contracts.

In one instance Cronin charged us $40 for a piece of work, when we could have had the same thing done for $18. The speaker seemed to feel that he was entitled to this additional rake-off, and there is where the rub came.

He came around this office, as did other members of the House of Delegates, trying to dictate the personnel of my force. He didn't succeed.

Here is a specific charge, not merely of an attempt to control appointments, but to secure jobs at the expense of the city.

What do the people think of public officers who "hold up" necessary bills and obstruct pressing public business because they are not permitted to pack the offices with henchmen and plunder the city treasury by means of jobs?

If there was lack of evidence of the purpose of the combine the statement of Speaker Cronin in the Sunday Post-Dispatch would be sufficient. The confession is worth repeating. The Czar of the House said:

While not a squealer, I'm willing to admit the way the House members have been treated by Rolla Wells and the police department is anything but encouraging.

Now, we can't get representation from the police board or Rolla Wells, and we intend to make them stand the consequences.

All we ask is fair consideration of the wants of our constituents. We can't get a thing. I couldn't get a friend of mine a job washing bottles from the present municipal rulers.

The whole situation is clear. The spoils combine must be satisfied or no bills will be passed, public business will be stopped, New St. Louis will not be made and the city will not be prepared for the World's Fair. The public welfare must yield to the demand of spoilsmen. The interests of the people must be sacrificed to the interests of the spoils gang.

Shall the combine hold St. Louis by the throat?

What have the people to say? Isn't it time for the people to make known their condemnation of such disgraceful proceedings and their determination to enforce their demand for decent government and an improved city?

The second call for World's Fair subscriptions affords the people of St. Louis another opportunity to show the interest they feel in the vast enterprise which means so much to their city and state.

LADIES ON STREET CARS.

A lady asks, in the letter column of the Post-Dispatch: "Why do not the men all sit together on a street car, unless accompanied by a lady, and give the ladies a chance to feel comfortable? It is very embarrassing every time a lady rides on a car to be compelled to sit down beside a strange gentleman. The company should make a rule for men to sit together, unless accompanied by a lady."

It should be just as embarrassing for a lady to be compelled to sit next to a strange gentleman in a church or a theater, yet no lady has thought of protesting against the custom or demanding that the men be placed by themselves, as goats unfit to stay among the sheep.

As long as men behave themselves, why should ladies feel uncomfortable while sharing seats with gentlemen?

This is a small matter indeed, when weighed against the constant neglect of street railway companies to provide seats for passengers. With enough cars running for everyone to be able to be seated, there would be exceedingly few ladies or gentlemen who would object to the sharing of seats as now practiced.

Although the World's Fair is to be held in 1903 and there is not a moment to lose making new streets and other public improvements, the House of Delegates combine calmly holds up public business until the spoils are forthcoming. The sense of responsibility in some public servants is conspicuous by its absence.

VANITY A MOTIVE OF MURDER.

The most conspicuous feature in the character of nearly all the assassins of Kings and Presidents is inordinate vanity. They have an insane desire for public notice.

In every case the assassin announces himself a hero. He certifies the fact. Wilkes Booth shouted, "sic semper tyrannis" just after he shot President Lincoln and unquestionably thought it a fine thing to be the center of the stage. Guiteau was worse. He was sure he was the most important man of his time. And the mad creature who shot down President McKinley is happy in the belief that everybody in Christendom is talking about him.

The same characteristic appears in the assassins of King Humbert, Empress Elizabeth and President Carnot. They were boasters who insisted that they were heroes deserving well of mankind.

Curiously enough the names of these creatures soon fade from the public mind. Like the man who fired the Ephesian dome, the modern assassin is forgotten, even though his deed and its consequences are burnt in history.

It may be questioned if vanity is not the chief, if not sole motive, in such cases. The assassin is more fool than lunatic. Whatever ideas he may harbor in his addled head concerning the social order, capital and labor, oppression, tyranny and human liberty, they never take consistent form. Not a single one of these assassins has been able to give a consistent, intelligible account of himself or his theories. But this one fact stands out—vanity, insane craving for notoriety.

There is here a suggestion for alienist and sociologist. At the bottom of every act is motive, and the act cannot be fully understood without a clear comprehension of this underlying cause. If we can find out what special infirmity, moral or mental, is common to assassins, we may be able to deal with them more effectually.

"Every wrong can be remedied by laws, and the laws are in the hands of the people themselves," writes Mr. Bryan on the subject of anarchy. Every intelligent American realizes this. American political conditions are what Americans make them. For whatever may be wrong the people are responsible.

BURY THE WIRES.

Tuesday's Post-Dispatch told the pathetic story of how little Mike Zielinski gave his life for a child friend. The older boy grabbed a live wire that hung down in the alley, just in time to prevent its being clutched by the baby hand of Joe Czerwiniski, but with fatal effect to himself.

It should not be necessary to tell such stories in St. Louis. This death occurred in a thickly settled district of the city, a district where children are compelled to use the streets and alleys for playgrounds. Every day their lives are menaced by the breaking of the overhead wires.

The conduit district should be enlarged so as to include all the thickly settled parts of the city. The live wire problem can be settled in no other way. The children and citizens generally should be safe from this menace. It is merely a matter of the passage of adequate laws and the expenditure of money by corporations well able to afford it.

Bury the wires.

It has recently been discovered that Emilio Aguinaldo, who was held up as an example of all that is petty and cheap and vicious, is really a man of statesmanlike proportions, worthy of the respect of the world. And now the Filipinos are praying for the President. It ought to be a lesson in temperate speech and courtesy to political foes.

M. Santos-Dumont, who recognized Mr. W. K. Vanderbilt's intelligence and his turn for mechanics, advised him to take up aeronautics. It was a good suggestion. The millionaire may find in that field a happiness denied him in finance. But he won't do it. Men whose millions weigh too heavily upon them seldom rise to aeronautics.

At the Minnesota State fair last week Missouri took all the prizes given in the Hereford cattle show except those for fine steers, and we also got some short-horn prizes. The Missouri cow is becoming more and more a source of Missouri prosperity.

There is another shock for humane people. The "biggest live bird shoot ever held in the country" is soon to take place in Chicago, and it does not appear that the birds to be slain for amusement are English sparrows.

Men who represent only one vote at the polls sometimes represent a great number of other things. In estimating the value for good or evil of eminent politicians this fact should not be forgotten.

Assassination is the scheme of fools. In our day it can accomplish nothing, and it injures the best cause in which it can possibly be invoked.

The evenings are so lengthening that every voter in St. Louis may get time to read the charter amendments.

WRAP AND RIVAL COLOR COMBINATION

A deal of fine lace is put on wraps, as the one shown in the above picture indicates. This handsome garment was white cloth appliqued with cream lace and embroidered in fine gilt thread. It had a hood cape of white chiffon, a high collar of cream lace and a chiffon ruffle appliqued with the lace. This wrap was not a whit richer than are many such, for the coming winter is to be one of fine outsides.

Black and white will be a stylish combination this fall and winter, as it has been for the past two seasons, but black and pale blue will divide favor with it. Gowns of handsome black lace or spangled tulle show some trace of blue either in panne velvet or satin outlined with white or cream lace. Sometimes the gown is black and white, the buttons rhinestones and turquoises in order to get the blue in even to a slight extent. The second dress of today's picture was a black and blue representative. Of robin's-egg blue nun's veiling, its trimming was black chantilly outlined with black lace-beating run with bright green velvet. The remaining gown was a white and black-white India silk and black lace applique.

HOW TO COOK THE BELGIAN HARE

By Mrs. G. T. Drennan in "Good Housekeeping."

Hare and pastry may be cooked in a baker or fireproof ware, and served in the same. Or it may be carefully laid on a broad, flat dish, having the top crust cut in pieces, put over the dish, and hard-boiled eggs cut into rings laid around the edge. Parsley also makes a nice garnish.

BROWN FRICASSEE.—Cut a hare, nicely cleaned and washed, into eight pieces. Salt and pepper each piece and roll separately in sifted flour. If preferred, cracker or bread crumbs and a beaten egg may be used to dredge the hare instead of flour. Have ready a deep frying pan half filled with hot lard. Drop the pieces in and fry them a rich brown, turning them so as to brown both sides evenly. Twenty minutes will be long enough for the thick pieces, fifteen for the thin ones. Lay the brown pieces on a hot platter, and leaving the frying pan on the fire, stir into it one tablespoonful of sifted flour. Let it brown slightly and then pour one cupful of sweet milk or hot water into it, stirring briskly for a few minutes. Pour this hot gravy through a strainer over the hare. If an onion is chopped fine and fried in the fat and two tablespoonfuls of tomato juice added, with a dust of cayenne pepper, the milk may be omitted from the gravy. One teaspoonful of curry powder will make the hare a curry to serve with rice.

WHITE FRICASSEE.—Stew the hare, cut into eight pieces, in one quart of boiling water. When it has boiled until two-thirds of the water has been reduced, set the stewpan back, cover closely and let simmer for half an hour. Add salt and black pepper, minced parsley and thyme, and take up the pieces on a hot platter. Melt one tablespoonful of flour and a cupful of sweet milk, with salt and pepper. Stir and let boil up once, then pour it over the stewed hare. Mushrooms or cauliflowers stewed tender may be served with this white fricassee.

JELLIED HARE.—For lunches, picnics or for making sandwiches, hare may be nicely jellied, like chicken. Boil the hare until the flesh slips from the bones. Remove the fat from the surface of the water. Set it to one side to cool. Dissolve half a box of gelatine in one pint of water, strain and add it to the liquor in which the hare was boiled. Boil the gelatine and liquor together five minutes, and strain. Chop the hare meat fine and season with salt and pepper. Also season the liquor over the meat after arranging it in a bowl smoothly, allowing space all around the meat for the gelatine liquor. Set to one side in a refrigerator and when the gelatine has congealed it is ready to slice for sandwiches or to lay on fancy dishes. Hard-boiled eggs sliced in rings may be laid between layers of the salad before the gelatine is poured over the whole.

SMOTHERED HARE.—Lay the hare, cut open, cleaned, washed and salted, into a pan with enough boiling water to half fill it. Sprinkle flour, salt and black pepper over the hare and set the pan in a hot oven. Baste every few moments by dipping up the hot water and pouring it by spoonfuls all over the hare. If it begins to brown too fast, lay thin strips of bacon over it, and let it cook until perfectly done and tender. Lay on a flat dish, add a tablespoonful of flour and one of butter stirred together, with tomato sauce, to the gravy, and pour one cupful of hot water into it, stirring constantly until the flour is brown. Pour the hot gravy over the hare and serve.

HARE, CHICKEN SALAD STYLE.—Boil a hare so tender that the meat may be picked from the bones. Chop the meat fine and mix an even quantity of nice crisp celery, chopped into small bits, through the meat. Then season with a teaspoonful of salt, one of made mustard, the yolks of five eggs, boiled hard and mashed, one tablespoonful of olive oil and three of vinegar. If the salad is too dry, add a cupful of the liquid in which the hare was boiled. Cut hard-boiled eggs into rings and garnish the dish of salad, also using pretty sprigs of watercress or parsley.

HARE AND PASTRY.—Make a light puff pastry, roll it thin, line a deep pan with it, reserving enough for a top crust or cover. Stew a hare tender in one quart of boiling water, with salt and pepper to taste. Lay the pieces in the pan lined with pastry, and between layers put strips of pastry. When the pan is thus filled, add a large cupful of sweet milk to the water the hare was stewed in, one tablespoonful of butter, one of flour, sprigs of parsley chopped into bits, and salt and pepper. Pour the hot liquid over the hare and cover the top of the pan with a crust of pastry. Crimp the edges, and stick with a fork here and there to let out the steam. As soon as the pastry is brown serve.

THE NEWEST BOOKS.

MR. CHARLES FELTON PIDGIN would have produced a better historical romance and his attempted rehabilitation of Aaron Burr would have been more worthy of consideration had he not chosen to erect Burr's fame upon the infamy of his political opponents.

Aaron Burr was a man of great force of character, and with a personal magnetism, the power of which was felt and acknowledged by everybody. He had more loving friends than any other political character in American history. Possibly he had more enemies, and their report has perhaps been received with too much credence.

But the author of "Blennerhassett" has defeated his own purpose. Burr appears the high-minded, forceful, sagacious statesman and chivalrous man. Hamilton is a sneak and a coward. Jefferson is a smug intriguer. Nobility is abundant among Burr's friends. Only meanness is found among his enemies.

As a rehabilitation of Aaron Burr this book is not to be taken seriously. Its partisanship is pressed to comicality. This is a pity, since the author has on his own testimony studied the matter exhaustively for many years. Had he brought the scholar's poise and impartiality to the work as well as his industry and faithfulness the result would have been of greater worth.

"THE CHOUANS," by Honore de Balzac, with photogravure frontispiece and illustrations by Julien le Blant, and an introduction by Prof. William P. Trent. (New York, Thomas Y. Crowell & Co.)

To the lovers of Balzac this handsome volume will be heartily welcome. To those unacquainted with the master-novelist, "The Chouans" will serve excellently as an introduction. It was the first of Balzac's books to bring that author a moiety of his larger fame. For years he toiled on, literally starving to death in a garret, until the advent of this book brought him into notice, and paved the way for still greater success. The work also deserves attention as being the only extended scene of military life emanating from his pen. Here he forsakes the streets of Paris and plunges into the battlefield and beleaguered wood.

The preparation of the volume makes it worthy its place in the "Luxembourg Edition." It is well printed on laid paper of good weight, with wide margins and gilt tops. The binding is tasteful and the volume contains 12 full-page illustrations in photogravure and half-tone, reproduced from original drawings of high merit.

An important feature is the critical introduction by Prof. William P. Trent of Columbia University. The introduction tells the date of the story's publication, its place in the "Comedie Humaine," purpose and chief characteristics. It will be found of considerable value as a guide to the further study of the great Frenchman.

"CASTING OF NETS." By Richard Bagot. John Lane: London and New York.

This is a story of mixed marriage—from the Protestant point of view.

Walter, Lord Redman, an agnostic, indifferent to all churches, is married to a good Catholic whose grandmother, a most estimable old lady, looks forward to his speedy conversion through the influence of the wife. Promises are exchanged before marriage that neither shall in any way bring any influence to bear upon the other, and both adhere faithfully to the agreement. Grandmother, mother and friends on both sides, however, do not fail in zeal, and some very interesting situations arise out of the struggle for the possession of a soul.

Literary Notes.

"Truth Dexter," by Sidney McCall, is ranked fourth among the 20 best selling books of the month by the September World's Work.

Mrs. E. Lynn Linton's novel, "The One Too Many," has just been published by the New Amsterdam Book Co. Miss Edith L. Lang has made a number of charming illustrations for the volume.

"Pitfalls of the Ballroom," by Geo. F. Hall, with a preface by Sam P. Jones, the evangelist, is directed against dancing. The arguments are all included and vigorously stated. Readers who are interested in the subject will no doubt be interested in this book. (Published by Laird & Lee, Chicago.)

Col. Richard Henry Savage occupies an unique place among American novelists. He is a soldier, scientist, traveler and poet, as well as novelist. His first romance, "My Official Wife," has been translated into 17 languages, and, as Col. Savage says, "has been dramatized, burlesqued and plagiarized."

"Justice to the Woman" is an appeal to man's better nature in behalf of a serious wrong done the weaker sister by our modern civilization, written in the form of a story by Mrs. Bernie Babcock. The subject is a difficult one, requiring all a woman's tact and delicacy for its treatment, but the need for just such a message as Mrs. Babcock has to tell should override every other consideration. A. C. McClurg & Co. announce the book among their publications for the autumn.

A consideration of the more familiar phenomena of optics, by Charles S. Hastings, professor of physics at Yale University, is brought out among the Yale bicentennial publications under the title of "Light." The book aims to describe and explain the very large number of phenomena in the domain of optics which may be regarded as familiar, in a sense that all of them may be observed without the accessories which are found only in the collections of apparatus characteristic of physical laboratories. The phenomena of color sensations are dealt with briefly and what may be called atmospheric optics is given a very full treatment.

Among their books for young people the Scribners will this year include new editions of three famous illustrated books by James Baldwin. They are "The Story of the Golden Age" and "The Story of Siegfried," each illustrated with a series of full page drawings by Howard Pyle, and "The Story of Roland" with a series of full page illustrations by R. B. Birch. In these books, which have proved exceedingly steady sellers, Mr. Baldwin presents respectively the legends relating to the Trojan war, the great Siegfried myth of Northern Europe and the medieval romance of Roland and Charlemagne, bringing before the reader, with great spirit, scholarly accuracy and unfailing taste these heroic figures and the times in which their adventures are supposed to have occurred.

JUST A MINUTE WITH THE POST-DISPATCH POET AND HUMORIST

AUTUMN.

Now soon the fall,
With all
The chilly evenings we recall,
Will reappear,
To queer
Sweet summer, same as every other year.
No more will beer
In glass or stein,
Gin rickey or highball
Make glad the eyne
Of all
Who seek,
Each day and week,
To have a time,
Encrimsoning the beak
Beyond the power of rhymne
To speak.
How many a dime
Have we blown in
For brew,
Plain water being too thin
For me and you!
Now we are in a stew,
And we begin to wonder,
Like a dying duck at thunder,
How we'll get through
The winter if there's nothing doing,
Nothing brewing,
To keep our fancies madly stewing,
However much
All such
Things reprehensible we may be ruing
Hereafter.
But what is laughter,
If not to use?
And if we choose
To become dafter
And make each rafter
With music ring,
Who shall deny us,
Decry us
Or with dyspeptic bias,
Forbid us such a thing,
Since every man who has to rassle
In his own castle
Is king?
Nay, though the summer,
A record-breaking hummer,
Is gone,
We still
Will
Toy
With joy,
And still keep going on,
Well knowing
That, owing
To sweet experience, we'll make a showing,
As heretofore.
Yea, there is much in store
For you and me.
A year hence,
What will this summer's clatter
And its disappearance
Matter,
Prithee?

He liked to keep his lawn neat,
And yet it made him sore,
For every time he cut the grass
He only had the mower.

Poles Repudiate Czolgosz.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The way to pronounce the assassin's name, Czolgosz, is "Cholgosh." His name is not Polish, because all our names end with "ski" or "cz," as: Sobieski, Sienkiewicz, etc. His parents might live in Poland, they may speak Polish and live among our people in America, but their name shows that they are Russians. Czolgosz is a typical Russian name.

There are no anarchists among our people!

Tuesday at 8 p. m. there will be held a Polish mass meeting at Lafayette Hall, Seventeenth street and Cass avenue, in order to denounce the horrible crime of Czolgosz and express our sympathy and loyalty to the chief magistrate of the great republic, Hon. William McKinley.

Coursing.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I see that coursing has begun again at Pastime Park. How is it that civilized people can enjoy such sport, if it can be called such? It seems that the sight of a helpless hare being overtaken by a bloodthirsty hound and torn to pieces would be revolting to a person of right mind.

It is to be hoped that the Humane Society can and will put a stop to this inhuman "sport." There is no excuse for it since there are so many places for innocent amusement where the better, instead of the baser, part of man will be stimulated.

True Americans Abide the Law.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Speaking of the attempt to assassinate President McKinley, Rev. Dr. H. R. Naylor said of the assailant: "I would have blown the scoundrel to atoms."

Reckless Speed of Cars.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Through the medium of your paper please call the attention of the proper authorities to the high rate of speed maintained by the cars of the transit company in their descent of Finney avenue from Grand to Vandeventer. The residents on that street will generally aver that it is from ten to twenty miles per hour. No effort on the part of a motorman could avoid a collision if one was threatened at this high rate of speed on that grade.

Recently there was a collision between a car and a fire engine responding to an alarm of fire. The engine was being driven as rapidly as usual south on Spring avenue into Finney; the driver knew that he had the right of way. The car was proceeding west at the usual high rate of speed down Finney. The motorman no doubt thought that he had the right of way, for no effort on his part was made to check the speed of his car, until he saw that a collision was inevitable. Result: a broken engine wheel and broken fender.

Influence of Good Plays.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Your correspondent, "J. N.," is quite right in his criticism of Prof. Andrews' statement as to theater going. I will go farther and say that I believe as many people have been benefited and awakened to good resolutions by witnessing good plays, where their better feelings and emotions are deeply aroused, as have been benefited by hearing sermons. If the preachers and the goody-good people really want the masses to become better they should devote a portion of their efforts to the encouragement of good plays and use their influence to create a public sentiment against low plays and theaters. If they don't see this they either neglect to study ways and means to wean people from the bad or they have no sincere desire to make them better.

DELEGATES HELD SNAP-SHOT SESSION

Meeting, With Sweeney in Chair to Execute Cronin's Orders, Lasted Only Seven Minutes, Although Many Important Bills Awaited Discussion.

It was a snap-shot session.

Seven minutes by the clock—from 7:12 to 7:19—the members of the House of Delegates sat at their desks Tuesday night.

The session was declared ended almost before it began.

There was an audience of two interested citizens who leaned on the railing of the balcony in the attitudes of Raphael's cherubs.

They bore a dazed look when the members of the House began to arise and disperse for they had just settled themselves comfortably to enjoy the evening's entertainment.

It was as if the curtain, but just rung up on the play, should suddenly be lowered.

In the absence of Speaker Cronin, Delegate John P. Sweeney was in the chair, and those not on the inside expected, if not a strenuous, at least an entertaining session.

Mr. Sweeney, ordinarily a comedian, was severe and judicial of aspect when he climbed into the throne.

Also he was perspiring. While the hour for opening the session approached he was across the street at Cronin's saloon conferring with the absent leader of the House.

At twenty minutes before 7 o'clock, a line of chairs stood on the edge of the sidewalk on the south side of Cronin's place and five men sat in them one of whom was Mr. Cronin. A negro waiter was kept busy carrying drinks to them.

And, while the speaker tarried, the three public ownership members held a tiny caucus in a corner. It was a solemn proceeding, but, apparently, entirely ineffectual, because not one of them said a word during the seven-minutes proceedings.

Other members of the minority wandered disconsolately about the chamber, occasionally glancing at the clock. Mr. Reiss, the leader of the minority, paced up and down, his eyes thoughtfully on the carpet. Someone said to him:

"I suppose there will be something exciting doing from the minority tonight?"

Mr. Reiss shook his head and shrugged his shoulders hopelessly.

"What is the use?" was his reply.

Mr. Burke dropped in and, turning his back on the speaker, languidly opened his newspaper and applied a match to his cigar, much as he would have done in his own library. But he had hardly time to read the headlines on the first page when he had to fold it up again—the session had closed in the middle of the first paragraph.

Sweeney in the chair bears a Napoleonic look—even the famous lock on his big forehead. Whether this lock was unintentionally displayed or was a bit of makeup for the part he was to play was not apparent.

After he had taken the chair, Sweeney looked around the house with so severe an aspect that Karbe, Funsch and Klute quailed before it. Then, with a sharp and decisive bang of his gavel, Mr. Sweeney commanded the House to come to order. It came.

Clerk Joe Judge hurried through the second reading of a lot of sewer bills, to which nobody paid any attention.

Charles J. Denny then did the only thing of importance that was done—except adjourn—during the session. He passed up a resolution that an additional appropriation of $40,000 be made for street cleaning and repairs. It was read and referred to its proper committee.

Then, came the thunderclap. Mr. Sweeney mumbled, "Motion to adjourn is in order."

Mr. Gazala arose and put his hat on, saying, "Movetjourn!" and hurried from the chamber.

Mr. Gazzolo had what is known in familiar parlance as a "date."

Mr. Sweeney decended from the rostrum and was the old, humorous Sweeney again; his Napoleonic lock slightly rumpled during his brief period of authority, but otherwise cheerful.

His reign hed been short—but Sweeney had his orders.

It will be interesting to the citizens of St. Louis to know that, while last night's session lasted only seven minutes, there are for the House's discussion, and passage or rejection, as their fate may be, many "held-up" bills.

SCENES AT TUESDAY'S HOUSE SESSION

CORN CROP SHOWS 51.7 AVERAGE

Wheat Average Was 82.8 Per Cent and Oats 72.1.

CORN SHOWS A DECLINE

MISSOURI'S APPLE CROP IS BETTER THAN ON AUG. 1.

The Potato Crop Gives Concern From the Fact That the Average Is but 52.2 Per Cent of a Normal Yield.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—The conditino of the crops throughout the country is shown in the monthly statement from the department of agriculture. The report shows the average condition of corn on Sept. 1 to have been 51.7. There was a decline during August amounting to 2.3 points, and the condition on the 1st of the present month was 28.9 points lower than on Sept. 1, 1900, 33.5 points lower than at the corresponding date in 1899, 31 points below the mean of the September averages for the last ten years, and 8.3 points below the lowest September average, that of 1881, ever before recorded. While the August rains were beneficial to late planted corn, it is in only a few states that the crop as a whole shows any improvement or has even held its own during the month. There has been a decline of 13 points in Ohio, 8 in Indiana, 2 in Illinois, Iowa and Texas and 3 in Nebraska. In Kansas and Missouri the local gains and losses about counterbalance each other, and in these states the condition of the crop as a whole is represented by the same figures as on Aug. 12.

The average condition at harvest of winter and spring wheat combined was 82.8, against 69.6 last year, 70.1 in 1899, and a 10-year average of 80.3. North Dakota, California and Oregon report a condition of 7 points, Washington, 12; Indiana, 16; Illinois, 19; Missouri, 22, and Kansas 28 points above their respective 10-year averages. On the other hand, the average condition in Iowa is 2 points, in Ohio and South Dakota 3, Pennsylvania 6, Minnesota and Nebraska 8, Michigan 22 and Texas 36 points below the respective 10-year averages of these states.

The average condition of oats when harvested was 72.1, against 82.9 last year, 87.2 in 1899, and a 10-year average of 81.6. Of the states having the largest acreage devoted to this product only Iowa and Minnesota report a condition comparing favorably with their 10-year averages, the former being 1 point and the latter 4 points above such averages. On the other hand, the condition of the crop in Ohio and Michigan is 3 points, in Illinois 7, in Indiana 8, Wisconsin 11, Nebraska 20, Kansas 21, New York 25, Pennsylvania 34 and Missouri 41 points below the respective 10-year averages of these states.

The average condition of barley when harvested was 83.8, against 70.7 last year, 86.7 in 1899 and 83.1 the mean of the averages of the last 10 years.

Since Aug. 1 there has been a general improvement in the condition of tobacco. Virginia, Tennessee, Maryland and Pennsylvania report conditions 1, 3, 9 and 10 points above their respective 10-year averages; in Kentucky the present condition and the 10-year average are equal, and in North Carolina, Ohio, Wisconsin and Missouri, the conditions are, respectively, 12, 13, 23 and 49 points below such averages.

Potatoes Show Great Shortage.

The average condition of potatoes on Sept. 1 was 52.2, against 62.3 on Aug. 1, 1901, 80 on Sept. 1, 1900, 86.3 at the corresponding date in 1899, and 78.8 the mean of the September averages of the last 10 years. The present condition is tho lowest ever reported in September, being 10.2 points below that of 1894, the lowest previous September condition.

There has been a general decline in the condition of sweet potatoes since Aug. 1, although five of the principal states still show a condition equal to or above that of a month ago.

The acreage of cloverseed has been considerably reduced since last year, only two of the states in which the production of cloverseed is of more than local importance, New York and Michigan, reporting even a small increase in acreage. All other states, except Nebraska, in which state the area is the same as last year, report deceases ranging from 5 per cent in California and Ohio to 37 per cent in Missouri. In New York, Minnesota and Michigan the present conditions are 1, 7 and 17 points above the respective ten-year averages; but all other states report conditions below such averages.

Of the five principal sugar cane states, Mississippi alone reports an improvement in condition during August, the present condition being 97, against 82 a month ago. The condition in Georgia remained at a standstill during the month and Alabama, Texas and Louisiana show decreases of 1, 3 and 4 points, respectively.

Three of the principal sugar cane states—Louisiana, Georgia and Mississippi—show conditions slightly above their ten-year averages, and in Alabama and Texas conditions are, respectively, 8 and 21 points below such averages.

An improvement in the condition of rice during the month of August is reported in but two of the rice-growing states—Florida and Texas. In Louisiana and North Carolina there has been no appreciable change in condition, and South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama report declines. In Louisiana, the chief seat of the rice-growing industry, the condition is 4 points above the mean of the averages of the last seven years.

Apple Crop Is Improved.

Five of the more important apple-growing states report an improvement in condition during August, such improvement amounting to 1 point in Indiana, 2 points in Kentucky, 3 in Tennessee, 11 in Missouri and 12 in Kansas. Only three of the states—Indiana, Virginia and Kansas—report conditions above their 10-year averages, while the remainder of the states report conditions below such averages, ranging from 1 point in Kentucky to 42 points in New York.

Reports as to the production of peaches, as compared with a full crop, in the important peach-growing states, range from 51 per cent in Texas to 76 in Tennessee, but three states showing an indicated production equal to or above that indicated in September, 1900. In all but two of the principal peach-growing states, however, a production exceeding the 10-year average is probable.

In all the states in which the growing of grapes is of more than local importance, except California, the present condition is below the 10-year average.

There is a decrease in the number of stock hogs being fattened, as compared with the number a year ago, in every state except Arizona, where an increase of 16 per cent is noted. In the important hog-raising states decreases in number for fattening are reported as follows: Georgia, 4 per cent; South Carolina, 9; North Carolina, 11; Mississippi, 12; Alabama and Indiana, 14; Ohio, 15; Iowa, 17; Arkansas, 18; Texas, Tennessee and Illinois, 19; Kentucky, 27; Nebraska, 33; Missouri, 35, and Kansas, 42 per cent. Reports as to size and weight of stock hogs indicate a condition above the 10-year average in but two states—Ohio and Pennsylvania—in each of which the present condition is 3 points above such average. The condition is below the 10-year average to the extent of 3 points in Georgia, Illinois, Kentucky and Nebraska, 5 in Alabama, 6 in Kansas, 7 in Missouri, Tennessee and South Carolina; 8 in Texas and North Carolina, 10 in Mississippi and 14 in Arkansas. In Iowa and Indiana the present condition is practically the same as the 10-year averages.

CROP AND WEATHER REPORT.

Telegraphic Advices From Various States on Conditions.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—Crop and weather conditions are telegraphically reported to the Weather Bureau as follows for the week:

Mississippi—Wather dry, all the week, favorable for crops and farm work; cotton opening fast, picking becoming general, crop short, being damaged considerably by rust, shedding, boll worms and excessive rains of August, some complaint of blight; fodder pulling about through; crop of inferior quality; late corn improving; potatoes, peas, turnips, sorghum and sugar cane doing finely.

Louisiana—Clear, with no rain, except showers south portion 3d to 6th inclusive; cotton picking general and progressing rapidly; crop suffering from rust and shedding in several localities; sharpshooters and boll worms destroying bolls in few parishes; rice harvest, except in few districts, yield generally satisfactory; late rice improved; sugar cane very promising, snowing 14 red joints in some sections; corn gathering progressing; much hay saved; gardens doing well.

Texas—Temperature below normal; heavy rains along gulf coast, over southeast and portions of west central sections; drouth broken in portions of southwest and along lower Rio Grande, but continues in central sections and portions of northeast; coton being rapidly picked; no improvement noted in late cotten, which has stopped growing and blooming in dry districts, and is shedding and rusting badly where rain fell; corn gathered; rice and sugar cane ready to cut.

Arkansas—Hot days, cool nights, no rain of consequence; cotton opening rapidly, picking progressing, yield promises fair to good on bottom land, poor on uplands; corn about all made; potatoes poor stands and being injured by drouth, apples generally good northwest section, generally poor elsewhere.

Tennessee—Fair weather and sunshine made one of the most favorable weeks of the season for farm work, and good progress resulted in growth and maturity of crops; tobacco fine, cutting and housing becoming general; cotton rapidly opening and picking in full progress; much good pea vine and millet hay and fodder saved; unmatured crops in good condition; large crop of peaches; apples still rotting; late corn growing well, some early being cut.

Kentucky—The temperature average was little above normal during the week, and practically no rainfall occurred; these conditions are very favorable for ripening and maturing crops, but rain is needed badly in some localities; late corn and tobacco are doing well; peaches are plentiful, but apples scarce; fair crop of early millet being cut for hay; winter wheat and rye are being sown where land is not too dry; farm work well up.

Missouri—Warm, dry weather continues; corn drying up, cutting progressing rapidly, about completed in some counties; cotton picking progressing; crop light; pastures generally bare, stock being fed as in winter; late forage crops making little or no progress; apples continue dropping, many trees dying; some wheat sown too dry for germinating.

Illinois—Continued dry and generally warm weather; preparation of wheat ground retarded; corn deteriorating slightly, maturity hastened by dry weather, much of it now in shock; broomcorn harvest progressing, a good crop; good crop of clover seed and stock peas; pastures deteriorating and stock being fed; potatoes and gardens poor; apple prospects continue poor, but peaches are abundant.

Iowa—Week warm and dry, closing widely distributed showers, which will facilitate plowing and fall seeding; corn rapidly nearing maturity, and bulk of late planted fields will be beyond danger from frost by the 20th, cutting in active progress and in drier sections about half the acreage is in shock, except portions of northern districts, pastures are bare and stock being fed from cornfields.

Kansas—Fine rains west, 8 inches at Ness City; corn ripening rapidly in central and eastern sections, cutting continues, nearing completion in many counties; wheat sowing begun in few counties, many waiting for rains; pastures good west, needing rain in central, fair east; east half too dry to plow.

Oklahoma and Indian Territory—Showers improved pastures. Kaffir corn and cane some, but were insufficient for material benefit; cotton picking, Kaffir corn, broom corn, cane and hay cutting progressing, with cotton giving light yields; fall wheat plowing and seeding made slow progress; late fruit fair yield.

SOME MILLS NOT RUNNING.

Others in Pittsburg District at Work With Their Old Men.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 11.—While it was pretty generally known from the fires having been withdrawn that no attempt would be made this morning to start the tube mill, nevertheless a great crowd of strikers was out before 7 o'clock guarding the approaches to the big plant. Not a man made an attempt to go back to work.

Despite the preparations made at the Monongahela tin plate plant, in this city, the works did not resume this morning. The fires were burning in the furnace and there was no lack of excitement about the mill, but no disorder. During the morning a number of colored men went into the plant under the protection of the police.

Painter's works started the double turn in the bar mill for the first time last night. There was a crew of 25 men and the management say another crew will be put on in a few days.

At Lindsay & McCutcheon's five puddling furnaces out of 20 were in operation, with old men. Two mills were also running with full forces.

Another furnace was started at the Star tin plate works today, making five in operation. The managements asserts that they will soon have the plant running in full.

WAS READY FOR A SMOKE.

Bruised and Bedraggled by a Car, but Was Still Alive.

RICHMOND, Ind., Sept. 11.—Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor, 90 years old, was struck by a street car and dragged fifteen or twenty feet, breaking her arm and inflicting very serious bruises. She was removed to St. Stephens hospital with the expectation that death was inevitable, but in a short time she revived, and after partaking of nourishment she called for her pipe of tobacco and insisted upon smoking. This is prohibited by the rules of the institution, but her case was considered so remarkable that the physicians consented that she should indulge in her favorite habit. There is a likelihood of her recovery.

The Future of Australia.

From the Philadelphia Record.

The Australian confederation have provided themselves a small standing army and have appropriated $5,000,000 toward the creation of a navy. This indicates that the Australians are no longer willing to depend entirely upon the mother country for the means of defense. The late census shows that there has only been a gain of 593,975 in the population of Australia in the last 10 years. Nearly as many persons have been lost by emigration as have been gained by immigration, and there is also a falling off in the birth rate.

It is the aim of Australian statesmen to promote a more rapid growth of the country by liberal legislation. By lightening the burden of taxation and by internal improvements facilitating the development of mineral and agricultural resources they hope to invite immigration and create a powerful independent state.

The people of the United States, whose form of government has been closely imitated by the Australians, have a commercial as well as a fraternal political interest in the great South Sea commonwealth. The future trading between the two countries will be large.

The Diversion of Society.

From the Philadelphia North American.

To jeer at the Newport cottagers for playing at being circus performers is to be either thoughtless or ill-natured. Of course, the Oelrichs circus was a childish amusement, and the efforts of the managers and performers to be witty and humorous may have been feeble, but it was all perfectly harmless, and there was no attempt to flaunt the idleness of the rich in the faces of people who work for a living. So far as the public and the press would permit, the Newporters avoided publicity, and it is unfair to accuse them of making an offensive display of frivolity.

It should be remembered that the capacities of these people for rational enjoyment are limited and the things in which they can take genuine interest are few. The ordinary diversions of society become monotonous in their aimless inanity, and it must be a relief from the dull round of fashionable vacuity even to sit around a tub and blow soap bubbles.

A ROYAL RIVAL.

A STIRRING ROMANCE OF LOVE AND INTRIGUE

By WILLIAM FAVERSHAM.

(Copyright, 1901, by the Press Publishing Co.)

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTER.

Don Jose de Santarem, favorite minister of the King of Spain, hopes to further his private interests by fostering the King's love for Maritana, a gypsy girl. He meets Don Cesar de Bazan, a young nobleman, who has squandered all his wealth and whose only assets are a sharp sword and high spirits.

In rescuing a boy named Lazarillo from arrest, Don Cesar quarrels with the captain of the guard and kills him in a duel. Dueling during carnival week is punishable by death. Cesar is arrested.

Don Cesar is condemned to be shot. Don Jose prevails on him to marry Maritana on the verge of his execution. Don Cesar consents, thinking her some woman who wants the title of countess. A thick face hides her face. Neither can see the other during the ceremony. At its close Don Cesar is led to the prison courtyard to be shot.

Maritana is introduced to society as the Countess de Bazan, and the Marquis of Rotondo is induced to own her as his niece. She meets the King, who, Don Jose informs her, is Don Cesar, to whom she is married. She is horrified at the mistake, as she loves the real Don Cesar. Cesar escapes execution by a trick and comes to the marquis' house in search of Maritana. He meets Don Jose.

Don Jose persuades him that the aged Marchioness de Rotondo is his wife, and Cesar is about to quit Madrid when he catches sight of Maritana and resolves to follow her to the villa the King has prepared for her.

The King joins Maritana at the villa. As they are talking, Don Cesar arrives.

Cesar confronts the King and a lively scene ensues that is interrupted by the entrance of Lazarillo.

Lazarillo brings to the King a message that draws him temporarily away. Cesar and Maritana meet. Explanations follow.

CHAPTER IX.

The Royal Rival.

"WHY do you turn from me," she pleaded, "now that we meet at last?"

"Pardon me," replied Cesar, "your royal lover brooks no rival."

The girl shrank back as if struck.

"O, my husband!" she sobbed, burying her face in her hands. "Are all my sufferings to be repaid like this? Hear me and then you can condemn me if you choose. On the day you fought the duel fate threw me in the way of Don Jose de Santarem. He professed an interest in my welfare, and told me he was commissioned by the Queen to raise me to the station I coveted. The means proposed were"——

"Most honorable, no doubt!" interrupted Cesar harshly.

"Host honorable!" echoed Maritana. "Can you doubt it? For in marrying you I believed I did so through your own wish, Don Jose told me you loved me. I—I loved you from the moment I saw you."

"Are you lying, Maritana?" Cesar broke in fiercely. He was staring intently into her great dark eyes as though striving there to reach the whole truth.

She burst into an uncontrollable flood of tears, and, seizing his unresponsive hand, fell on her knees before him.

"O, Cesar, my husband!" she sobbed. "I have suffeerd for my pride; but I have been true in thought, word and deed to you! To you, whom I love. I never loved any one else. If I have been false to you, let me answer with my life!"

"Those are fearful conditions, Maritana."

"I dare abide by them!" she retorted.

"I do believe you!" he cried joyously, all doubt swept away at sight of her upraised, tear-stained face. He gathered her into "Oh! won't you believe me?" his arms and rained down kisses on the responsive lips.

"Forgive me that I ever doubted you, sweetheart," he pleaded. "Don Cesar, the adventurer, no longer lives. Don Cesar, the Count Garofa, will live, in future, worthy of his name, since you are to share it. Hark!" as the roll of a drum was heard outside. "There are the drums of the city guard! They have learned I am here and are surrounding the house."

"Then go! Go quickly!" begged Maritana.

"Go when the King is at your door?" retorted Cesar, in anger.

"Don't fear for me, but go and find the Queen," uged Maritana. "Tell her I am in danger. She will save me."

"No, no!" he protested. "I'll trust sooner to my own sword to protect you."

"Dear heart," whispered the girl. "I know how much I am asking of you and how bitter it must be for you to seek the aid of a woman sooner than to rely on your own splendid skill. But for my sake, I implore you—go to the Queen!"

"As you will," he cried, kissing her and going reluctantly from the room. "To the Queen!"

The tramp of soldiers' feet grew nearer. Suddenly they stopped, as if arrested by some order from a person in authority.

"The King, madame," announced Lazarillo, entering.

"Wait!" commanded Maritana, stepping to the boy's side and drawing the dagger from his belt. "I will take this. At the worst it will save me, and prove to Cesar that I am true."

"Where is the stranger I left here?" asked the King, as he followed Lazarillo into the room.

"Gone, sire," replied the boy, retiring.

"I was forced to leave you for the moment, Maritana," began the King.

"Yes, your majesty," said the girl.

The King started angrily.

"Majesty!" he echoed, "who has dared to betray me?"

"The only man who has betrayed you, sire," replied Maritana, "is the man who counseled you to a course unworthy of a king; who introduced you to me as my husband."

"Maritana," said the King, taken aback, and resolved to try the effect of his rank, "I admit I am the King. Now that you know who I am I vow to you that you are the one woman I have ever truly loved."

"Go, sire, I beg of you! Leave me!" begged Maritana.

Thinking her reluctance assumed, the King advanced a step nearer.

Maritana sprang back and drew Lazarillo's dagger.

"Would you raise your hand against the Lord's anointed—against your King?" cried his majesty in alarm.

"No, sire! But I would kill myself sooner than permit you to lay one finger on me."

"Am I so repulsive to you, Maritana?"

"It is not that, sire. But I am the wife of a man who must find me worthy of him or find me dead."

"Of whom are you speaking?"

"Of my husband, Don Cesar de Bazan."

"Bah! He's dead!"

"Not yet, sire," cried a voice from the door. "Not yet; thanks to your majesty's gracious pardon."

KENEILEY TELLS NEW STORY

Realizing He Will Recover, He Now Says He Killed Bertha Richter Without Premeditation.

George Keneiley, who murdered his 16-year-old sweetheart, Bertha Richter, Thursday, Sept. 5, and shot himself, is rapidly recovering in the City Hospital.

Keneiley, realizing that he will get well, is trying to "hedge" on his former statements and his letter to the effect that he had long premeditated the murder of Miss Richter.

To the Post-Dispatch Keneiley said Wednesday morning:

"I killed the girl in a moment of passion. Until she lay dead and I had shot myself and was brought to the hospital, I did not know what I had done."

"Why did you kill her?"

"She came up to my room Thursday morning and was cross to me."

"Do you believe that because she was 'cross' to you you were justified in killing her?"

"Well, it made me wild. I flew into a rage and pulled my gun and shot her."

"But you had threatened her often before that, had you not?"

"No. She knew I had a gun, and, when she was bad to me, I told her that some day, if she treated other men like she treated me, she would get shot."

The doctors in Ward 15 in the City Hospital are watching Keneiley closely. They fear he will attempt to commit suicide, now that he knows that his recovery is certain.

"We have learned," said Dr. Dillon, who has charge of Keneiley's case, "that he is trying to get friends in to see him. As he has repeatedly stated to me and to the nurses that he will kill himself to avoid the penalty of the law if he gets a chance we are compelled to keep everyone, not personally known to us, away from him. If we permitted his friends to see him he might persuade one of them to furnish him means for destroying himself. He cannot leave his bed because he is strapped to it as a prisoner."

FINALLY FOUND THE COURT.

Building Commissioner Waits for Court to Open in Building Deserted Five Years Ago.

G. F. Longfellow, building commissioner of St. Louis, ascertaining Wednesday morning that the police court south of Arsenal street had been located for the last five years in the Wyoming street Police Station, at Ninth and Wyoming streets.

Mr. Longfellow, who has charge of all the public buildings of St. Louis, went to the Carondelet Police Station at Pennsylvania and Rovert avenues early Wednesday morning to appear in a case brought by his department against the Keyes-Marshal Bros. Livery Co., who are charged with making certain changes in a building at 5263 Delmar avenue without permission.

After Mr. Longfellow had waited patiently for the court to open at its old stand, vacant for five years, he asked some questions. Then he learned that the courtroom was at Wyoming and Ninth streets. When Mr. Longfellow arrived at the Wyoming Station, court had been adjourned. The case against the livery company was set over to Oct. 2.

Some of the spectators in the court were inclined to gibe the building commissioner when he explained to Judge Zimmermann that he had gone to a courtroom deserted for five years.

The Cardinals were not defeated Tuesday at New York.

They stared that misfortune in the face for eight innings, however, and it was on a lucky turn that, in the ninth inning they sent a man around the bases, making the score 3 to 3.

Rain had been impending and, after the fifth inning the Giants demanded that the game be called on account of darkness.

The demand was repeated at frequent intervals and, at the start of the Cardinals' half of the ninth when it really was difficult to play, it appeared as though Dwyer would listen. He decided that it would be unfair to St. Louis and permitted the game to continue.

The permission gave the Cardinals a chance to save themselves from defeat, and strange as it may appear, the St. Louisans took advantage of it.

Magee pitched for New York. By what sort of reverse action Donovan's late protege turned up in a Giant uniform is not explained.

Probably he was told, after the team arrived at New York, that he would not do for the St. Louis club.

He did for the New York club. In a duel with Harper, he quit in the lead on the day's work. Seven hits were made off him and Harper was hammered for eight.

If the New Yorks had not thrown the ball all over the lot in an endeavor to catch base runners in the ninth inning, he would have won his game, even though the League's leading pitcher was opposed to him.

In the final round, with the score 3 to 2 for the Giants and two men out for St. Louis, Magee passed Kruger to first. Oom Paul stole second and went to third on a wild throw by Warner. Van Haltren made a wild throw from the outfield and Kruger went in with the necessary tally.

Dwyer then called the game.

Van Haltren managed to steal home on Harper. It is the same old play that Padden worked once and which Burkett has been trying since. The score:

BOYS MAY BE MURDERERS.

Eight Arrested on Suspicion of Killing a Companion at Denver.

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 11.—Some weeks ago Homer Reahard, an 11-year-old boy, was found dead near his home in West Denver, with a bullet in his brain. He was thought to have been accidentally shot by a hunter, but the police now believe it was a case of murder, and eight boys have been arrested on suspicion. They are: Sam and Casey Gaul, aged 14 and 12 years respectively; Chester John, aged 14; Ray Pool, aged 14; Henry, Charles and Roy Brune, brothers, aged respectively 18, 14 and 12 years, and their cousin, George W. Brune, aged 14.

The detectives believe Reahard had quarreled with some of the boys and that he was first stoned and then shot. They claim to have the evidence of a boy, whose name they refuse to give, on which to base their theory.

BASEBALL COMMENT

The Cardinals will play at Philadelphia Wednesday, and will surprise the fans if they win more than one game.

That has been the record of the team since it left St. Louis. It is a fearful thing to have on one's conscience—that record of defeats and bad playing. It should lie heavily on Donovan's soul.

Donovan, however, appears long ago to have lost heart, and whether the team wins or loses is the same with him.

With the team playing poorly, Philadelphia probably will step up the ladder a few points during the visit of the St. Louis men.

Powell probably will pitch the first game, and Nichols will receive his delivery.

Pittsburg still mounts.

With Leever in the box, the Pirates won from Philadelphia in a slugging match Tuesday.

Leever's temporary retirement from the game appears to have settled in his arm, for there was a startling absence of anything puzzling in his delivery.

The Pirates were good enough to win, however, and played fast championship ball. All aggregations look alike to the Smoky City team this season.

Patsy Donovan is supposed to be keeping an eye open for promising material from which, it is hoped, strong, young timber to bolster up a failing organization may be developed.

The eye, in this case, is probably that of "Little Looie." If any scouting or managing is being done by the St. Louis team, Manager Heilbronner is responsible for it. Donovan's management appears to be of a passive character.

McGraw is supposed to be after Dan McGann. That player denies the allegation, but qualifies his remarks by saying that if a proper consideration were involved he might be induced to join the American League. McGann says he has received no formal notice of his release and that he doesn't see how he can be expelled by the club, as he left it before it took any action on his case. Daniel will hardly go with McGraw. Donlin is doing well on first for the Baltimores and he can hit better than McGann.

Ban Johnson puts the name of Fred Raymer on the list of blacklisted players. Raymer is said to have signed a Milwaukee contract last season and then jumped to the Chicago National League club.

Boston is playing fast ball and may beat the Cardinals out of a first division place if they keep up their recent work. They took a majority of games from the St. Louisans and followed that coup up with four straight games from the Reds. A few more victories will put them on even terms with Donovan's tribe.

TRIAL IS NEXT BIG STAKE

Pastime Coursing Club Announces It for Saturday and Sunday for Whelps of 1900.

The Trial stake, a feature of the Pastime Coursing Club's meeting, will be run Saturday and Sunday at Pastime Park.

The conditions governing the stake are a $3 entry fee, with the usual added money. Only whelps of 1900 are eligible. Entry closes at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon. The draw will take place Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Owing to the success of the opening days of the meeting, the management has decided to put on two stakes next week. To that already scheduled has been added an all-age event, $3 entry fee, to close at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon, the draw to take place immediately after that for the puppy stake.

The Trial stake is of importance because almost every dog entered has been nominated, or will be, for the Futurity and Waterloo stakes.

Owners and greyhounds still are arriving at the park from the West. The kennel accommodations are about exhausted and the management may have to enlarge the quarters for the hounds.

John J. Lavin has matched his imported bitch, Heredine, against the Denver greyhound, Mac's Melody, for $50 a side. Ed Hardy, who is training Bartel's string, is taking the Melody end of the affair.

The books suffered at the run-off of the Inaugural stake Saturday and Sunday. The public seemed to have a better line on the abilities of the animals than the layers of odds. Dog bookmaking is an experiment locally, but it seems to have caught the popular fancy. It is more convenient than the old way of private betting.

NEWS OF THE FOOTBALL PLAYERS

The football season has opened in St. Louis.

A squad of St. Louis University men rolled around in the dirt for a short time Tuesday, more to make acquaintance with their outfits than to work seriously.

Martin Delaney is expected to arrive and active practice will begin with his coming. Last year, although the university was about the first school in the city to open up, it did not get a good start on its football squad and make-up and quality of the eleven was uncertain until the season was on. As a result, the club was weak early in the season, but rounded to nicely before the close of the year.

This year the men will be put actively in training from the start and the team will be in form by the first of October. Work on the schedule is progressing. Manager O'Neil has not announced any dates, but says the team will have several good ones.

When Delaney starts on his work he will have a much easier task than he had last year. Then the entire team was made up of raw material. Not only were the capabilities of the players unknown, but it also was necessary to try them in various positions to discover which they were best fitted for.

This season the way is clear. Practically the entire squad of last season is back, and McLain should entertain the best eleven that ever represented the school.

Not only will last season's men be back, but some of several seasons before last again will turn out on the gridiron. The post-graduate course recently introduced as a feature of the institution's educational work has attracted many old students, and already several football players have taken advantage of the opportunity to get back in the game.

Among the names mentioned in this connection are: Kinsella, Ghio, Schreiner, Kieley and Davis. The addition of these five to the team of 1901 would make a fast organization. Kieley is one of the best ground gainers in the city. Schreiner played an acceptable tackle for Marion Sims last year. Davis, formerly captained the St. Louis University team, and Kinsella and Ghio are said to be good men.

All of these players are former university men and are thoroughly experienced in the game. Besides these, other men are expected to enter before school is far advanced.

The squad may turn out for another ball-passing practice Thursday.

Racing Notes.

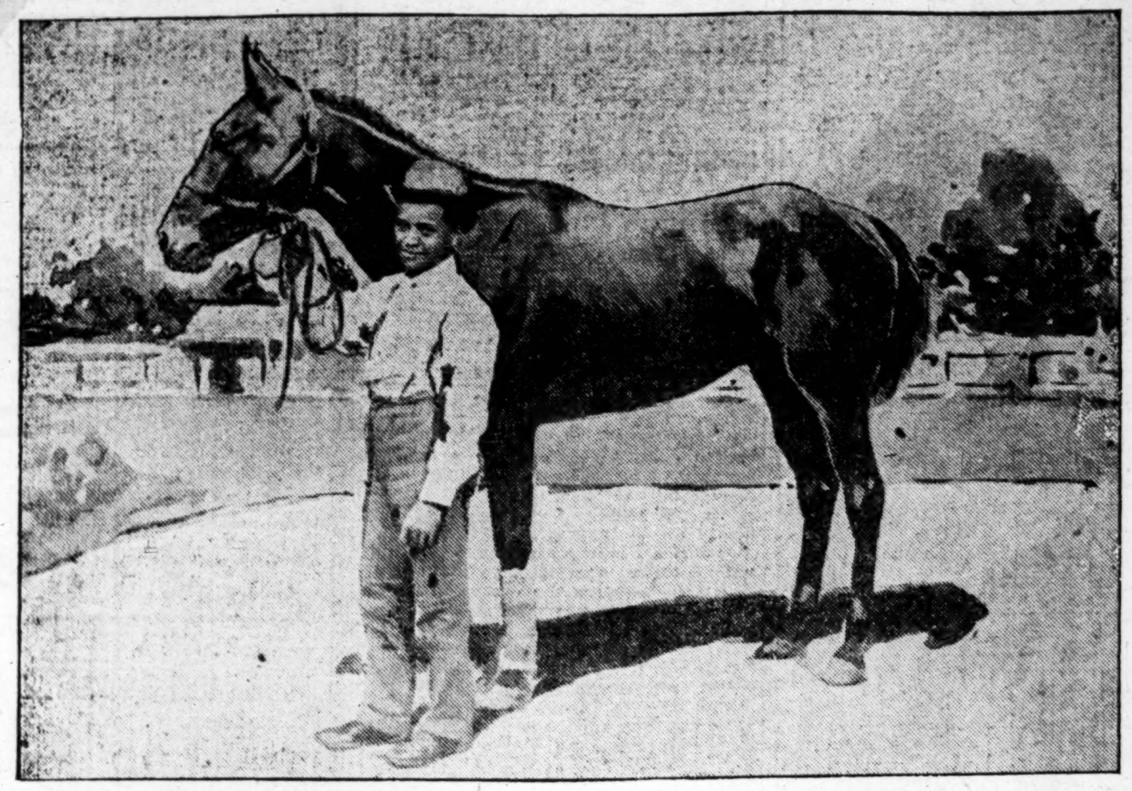

Capt. Rice says his new purchase, Rochester, is a fine-looking, high-priced "dog." He has hopes of eventually doing something with him, however. Rochester is a racy looking beast with the distinction of running second to the Prince of Melbourne.

Melbourne and Rochester were the only animals in the race.

Gen. McGruder, another of the Captain's horses, is undergoing repairs as a result of trying to cut off too much of a corner on a turn during his last out.

Mr. J. A. Baer has just returned from an extended trip to European markets, where he spent four months in the interests of the Grand Leader.

COURSE IS HEAVY

MUD HORSES SHOULD WIN AT DELMAR WEDNESDAY.

IDA LEDFORD IS PICKED

Hengist, Warren Point, Rose of Red, Miss Mae Day and Teucer Are Probable Winners.

DELMAR SELECTIONS.

First Race—Hengist, May Violet, Coreel.

Second Race—Warren Point, Furo, Two Annies.

Third Race—Rose of Red, Huntressa, Sambo.

Fourth Race—Ida Ledford, Van Hoorebeke, Blink.

Fifth Race—Miss Mae Day, Rochester, Guide Rock.

Sixth Race—Teucer, Uterpe, Lady Curzon.

An opportunity will be afforded to mud horses at Delmar to distinguish themselves Wednesday.

The going, while not holding, will be heavy and lumpy.

The condition of the track for the last two months has been so good that animals, who revel in soft going, have had no chance to earn brackets, and, as a consequence, their training necessarily must have been retarded.

A mud horse cannot win even in the mud unless he is in condition to race.

The racing this afternoon, therefore, will be liable to cause some surprises.

TODAY'S DELMAR WEIGHTS AND ENTRIES

Below will be found entries and weights for today's races at Delmar, with last five races of each horse; horses not having started five times are credited with starts made this season, together with jockey, distance, position at start, finish, etc.

Figuring that an average horse will cover 50 feet, or five lengths, a second, the position at finish should be valuable information, unless eased up.

GOSSIP ABOUT PUGILISTS

Clarence Ritchie and Eddie McFarland are training hard for their 15-round fight at the West End Colliseum Thursday night. They are in the pink of condition as far as outward appearance goes. They will weigh in at 122 pounds.

The match is the best that has been arranged recently in St. Louis.

Both men are well up in their class, though Ritchie looks better on form. He has just returned from the East, where he recently beat Tommy Sullivan at New Britain, Conn. He also has many other wins to his credit.

McFarland is supposed to figure up well on the strength of his battle with Sanders recently. He looked like a real fighter alongside the negro.

A battle royal has been arranged as a preliminary. Two of Ed Butler's negroes will fight three outsiders. Sweet Lavender, famous for red hose and two battle royal victories at the West End Club, will be one of Butler's pair.

No referee has been selected for the big affair, but Manager Haughton announces positively that he will not assume that task.

Jack Sims and Julius Klein are scheduled to meet at the same time and place at 140 pounds. Sims and Klein have met before, but they only went five rounds, the decision being a draw. Thursday night, they will go a longer route.

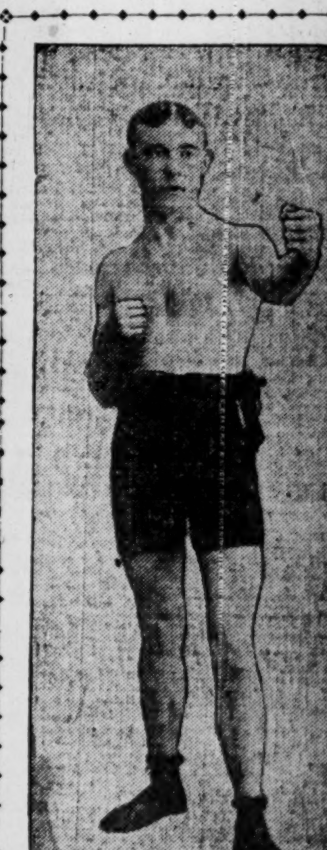

The bouts will be held in the main hall. The gymnasium on the second floor was too small to accommodate the crowd comfortably at the McFarland-Saunders fight.

Because the incorporation papers failed to arrive on time, Mal Doyle and his Olympic Club were unable to bring off the Cotton Deters-George Block match, scheduled to take place at the quarters of the club, 1107 Pine street, Tuesday night.

Another reason for the failure of the men to meet was an injury to Deters' ankle.

Nearly 1000 persons were on hand to witness the fight and probably a substitute for Deters would have been found if the meeting had been allowed to proceed. Instead, however, a sergeant of police bruskly inquired for the club's articles of incorporation.

As the same were not on hand, the sergeant said, "No papers, no fight." Doyle blew out the footlights and went home despondent, but wiser.

CLARENCE RITCHIE.

Trouble is brewing in the Pacific coast regions where the big fighters are supposed to be preparing for a championship battle. Information comes from San Francisco that Manager Gleason of the Twentieth Century Club has gone to Harbin Springs where Jeffries is training, to inquire of the fighter or his manager what is the meaning of the delay in posting Jeffries' forfeit.

No reason has ever been advanced why Jeffries has failed to do his share towards guaranteeing the fight. The club certainly has the right to ask why the forfeit has not been posted.

Tom O'Rourke will begin work on a $40,000 club house at East Port Chester, Conn., this week. The club will be convenient to New York and it is expected that all the big mills will be held there.

Billy Teller, better known in the pugilistic world as Young Griffo, was arraigned before a New York magistrate Tuesday on a charge of highway robbery. Teller pleaded not guilty, but was held in $1000 bail.

Jim Corbett is getting ready to make another trip to Europe. He announces that he will start a cafe in Paris that will outclass anything of the kind in France. The place will be opened next winter and will be headquarters for American sporting men.

"Kid" Broad and Hugh McPadden are matched to meet at New Britain, Conn., Sept. 16.

The total value of all farm animals and live stock in the United States is more than $2,000,000,000. More than half that value ($1,200,000,000) is in cows, oxen and other cattle.

REALIZING BROKE PRICES

REGARDLESS OF GOVERNMENT CROP REPORT, CORN WORKED LOWER.

Corn Closed From 1-4c to 1-2c Lower Than Yesterday, Wheat 3-8c to 1-2c, and Oats Unchanged —Trade Better Than Usual.

The government Sept. crop report, placing the condition of corn at 51.7, oats at 72.1 and winter and spring wheat at 82.8, sent corn at the opening this morning ⅞@1c above the close yesterday and wheat and corn up ¼c. Profit taking canceled all the grains and put wheat and corn below yesterday's close.

There was nothing in conditions to warrant the declines. The government report on wheat, indicating a yield of 646,000,000 bu, shows a falling off since Aug. 10.

The condition of corn, 51.7, is the lowest in the history of the United States and indicates a yield of about 1,240,000,000 bu, 50,000,000 bu less than a month ago.

The clearances of wheat, corn and flour were small, while the wheat receipts were larger than a year ago. There was little foreign buying and the foreign markets were lower.

Long holders of wheat and corn started in after the opening to realize on their holdings and at the close this afternoon wheat was off ⅜@½c, corn from ⅛c to ½c and oats unchanged.

The action of the corn market today was a surprise to the trade. It was thought that the government report showing a condition of 51.7, which is 8.3 below the lowest average, that of 1881, would be a strong bull factor.

Besides the primary receipts were 300,000 bu less than a year ago and St. Louis received 14,000 bu less than last year.

Dec. opened there ⅞c higher than the close yesterday at 59⅝c and May 1c up at 61½c.

More long corn came out at this advance than was wanted. Dec. sold down to 59¼c and May to 60⅞@61c. There was a slight rally when Dec. went up to 59½c and May to 61c.

Liverpool after opening ⅜d up, closed ¼d lower to ⅜d higher. Long corn came out freely and the buying was poor. All seemed inclined to want to realize at once. The market getting no support broke.

A rumor that President McKinley was worse increased the pressure to sell.

Dec. went quickly down to 58½c, which was bid at the close, ⅞c below yesterday.

May sold down to 60⅛c and closed at 60c bid, ½c below yesterday's close.

The clearances of corn amounted to only 21,000 bu.

Dec. corn sold today at 59⅝c, 59½c, 59⅜c, 59⅝c, 59⅜@59¼c, 59½c, 59⅜c, 59¼c, 59¼@59⅜c, 59⅜c, 59½c, 59⅜c, 59¼c, 59⅜c, 59¼@59⅜c, 59¼c, 59⅛c, 59¼c, 59⅛@59¼c, 59¼c, 59⅛c, 59c, 59⅛c, 59@59⅛c, 59c, 59⅛c, 59¼c, 59c, 58¾c, 58⅝c and 58½c.

May sales: 61½c, 61c, 60⅞@61c, 61c, 60⅞c, 60⅝c, 60⅝@60¾c, 60⅜c, 60½c, 60¼c, 60⅛@60¼c and 60⅛c.

Though the condition of the Sept. government report showed a decline from August, indicating a yield of 643,000,000 bu, there was little to bull the market and wheat opened higher, largely in sympathy with corn. The cables were fairly steady. Liverpool reported an advance of ¼d.

Dec. opened ¼c up at 72c, and May¾ ¼c up at 75⅝c; but the receipts were large, the Northwest reporting 520 cars more than a year ago, while the primary receipts amounted to 250,000 bu more than last year. There was no foreign buying, and the clearances amounted to only 460,000 bu in wheat and flour. The weakness in corn was another bearish factor. Long wheat came out and prices broke. Dec. sold down to 71¼c, which was paid at the close, a loss of ⅛c.

May sold down to 75c, which was paid at the close, a decline of ⅜c since yesterday.

Dec. wheat sold today at 72c, 71⅞c, 72c, 71⅞@72c, 71⅞c, 71¾c, 71⅝c, 71⅜c, 71⅝c, 71⅝@71¾c, 71⅝c, 71½c, 71⅜@71½c, 71⅜c and 71¼c.

May sales: 75⅝c, 75⅛c and 75c.

While trade in oats was very dull today the market opened ¼c higher than yesterday in sympathy with corn.

May sold at 39⅝c and closed unchanged from yesterday at 39¼c asked.

Receipts of wheat at St. Louis were 95,336 bu, compared with 110,683 bu a year ago. Of these, 3261 sacks and 86 cars were local and 24 cars through, compared with 5459 sacks and 114 cars local and 9 cars through a year ago.

Receipts of wheat at primary points were 1,568,819 bu, compared with 1,316,000 bu a year ago.

Shipments, 770,248 bu, compared with 939,000 bu same date a year ago.

Receipts of wheat at Minneapolis and Duluth were 958 cars, compared with 437 cars same date a year ago.

Receipts of corn at St. Louis were 19,200 bu, compared with 34,450 bu a year ago. Of the receipts, 19 cars were local and 5 through, compared with 28 cars local and 15 cars through a year ago.

Receipts of cornat primary points were 535,057 bu, compared with 843,000 a year ago.

Shipments, 277,368 bu, compared with 217,000 bu same date a year ago.

Receipts of oats at St. Louis were 37,200 bu, compared with 42,375 bu a year ago. Of the receipts, 29 cars were local and 2 cars through, compared with 29 cars local and 6 cars through a year ago.

Receipts of oats at primary points were 462,940 bu, compared with 866,000 bu a year ago.

Shipments, 180,949 bu, compared with 554,000 bu same date a year ago.

General Market Notes.

Total clearances today: Wheat, 352,000 bu; flour, 24,000 bbls; corn, 21,000 bu; oats, 34,000 bu; wheat and flour, 460,000 bu.

Broomhall, Liverpool cable: The American crop report counteracted the effect of the lower American markets yesterday, causing an opening advance of ¼d in wheat. A slightly easier feeling developed later, however, with a loss of ¼d in Dec. owing to the cheap offerings of American wheat. Corn opened ⅜d higher on the government report and continued unchanged in price, although the undertone became easier on profit taking by scalpers.

Schwartz, Dupee & Co. to Oswald Graves: Yesterday we figured on acreage of 44,000,000 acres on wheat. We now find that the government has raised the spring wheat area from 15,690,000 to 17,468,000 acvres, making a total acreage of 45,725,000. This would mean a total crop of 646,000,000 bu, instead of 622,000,000 bu as figured yesterday.

Argentine cables report weather all that could be desired for growing wheat crop.

Messages from Chicago predict that corn receipts there will in a few days amount to less than 100 cars a day.

The first line of quotations in each class is calculated to represent the full range from common to extra. Dealers, however, often classify superlative bunches (all tops) for buyers, which sometimes sell considerably above the highest quotations. The second line of quotations signifies the bulk of sales and generally represents the various classes as they are sold on the commission market, more or less mixed.

STOCKYARD NOTES.

The total offerings which were in the horse market for the auctions of Tuesday and Wednesday were of liberal extent, but the proportion which went before the buyers on the Tuesday market was only moderate and seemed to represent the plainest of good chunks and a few desirable drivers were included in the run, but for the most part it was composed of small southern horses and very ordinary chunk and general purpose horses. Trade was steady with the opening of the week or hardly any different from the close of last week, although the sales did not show up as well as a week ago on account of the lower quality of the offerings. Extra chunks sold up to $170, but the majority of the fair to good medium weights sold at $120 to $135. There was quite a good demand from southern sources at practically the prices of last week.

The receipts in the mule market for the first two days made a large supply on the commission market Tuesday, as the sales of the first day were comparatively few and irregular. It was a slow and draggy trade. Quite a few southern buyers were on the market. They were "resting on their oars," or the equivalent of it, for they were doing nothing in a purchasing way. In most phases the eastern trade likewise showed marks of a light volume. Consequently the local dealing demand was small and backward and the disadvantage rested with the sellers. Mules that were of very good quality were quoted steady with last week, but there was a feeling of weakness on all plain, thin and medium classes.

STOCKS DECLINE AT OPENING

News From Buffalo, Unfavorable Crop Report and Failure of Strike Settlement Affect the Market.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Declines reaching a point or over for the leading stocks were shown by the opening quotations.

The news from Buffalo was regarded as less reassuring and the unfavorable crop report and the failure of confirmation of yesterday's report of the steel strike settlement were depressing factors. Business was not on a large scale.

The tone of the market became firmer, owing to the strength of the Vanderbilt stocks. The group moved strongly upward, Canada Southern leading with a gain of 4½.

Not many fluctuations of importance occurred elsewhere, but there was consistent support of the grangers, Pacifics, Southwesterns and United States Steel stocks. Republic Steel common fell 1½ and the preferred 3 on the poor showing of the annual report.

Realizing depressed some of the leading stocks toward noon. St. Paul reacted 1½. American Smelting recovered 1½ when the annual report was published. Bonds were easier.

Prices sagged to about the opening low level, except where special strength had been shown. Business was on an exceedingly small scale.

New York Money and Exchange.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Noon—Money on call steady at 4½ per cent; prime mercantile paper 5@5½ per cent. Sterling exchange fairly steady with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.85¼ @4.85½ for demand and at $4.82¾@4.83 for 60 days; posted rates, $4.83½@4.84 and $4.86@4.86½; commercial bills, $4.82½. Silver certificates unquoted. Bar silver, 58¼c. Mexican dollars, 45½c. Government bonds strong; refunding 2s, reg., 108; coup, 108½; 3s, reg. and coup., 108½; new 4s, reg. and coup., 138; old 4s, reg., 112; coup., 113, 5s, reg and coup., 103.

FINANCIAL.

EXPORT OIL & PIPE LINE CO.

OF BEAUMONT.

President ....Hon. CHARLES A. TOWNE
Of New York City and Beaumont, Tex.

"THE PROSPECTIVE FUTURE OF TEXAS."

The stories of the potential and in some cases actual riches of some of the Texas oil magnates are not overdrawn, considering the productiveness of their wells. At the present price the medium calculation of the supply promises an annual return to Texas of over a hundred million dollars. Inasmuch as they will manufacture little of it, at least according to their present plans, that revenue will be almost all profit. No American, accustomed as he is to bonanzas, ought to disbelieve in the fruition of such hopes and chances as are thus pictured, or fail to understand what the results will be for Texas. In a few short years it may become the wealthiest state in the Union and may furnish the riches of the country's wealthiest men of the not distant future. —Providence Journal, Aug. 21, 1901.

The above, from a rich and independent paper which stands among the best in this country, is a vountary expression of opinion; as such it is of interest.

Dr. Paul Dvorkovitz, a native of Russia, but now manager of the Petroleum Institute of London, and director in some of the largest Russian, Roumanian and English oil companies, was in Beaumont the last week in August. He came direct from London to Beaumont, and returned Aug. 30 direct to London, the sole object of his visit being to investigate the Texas field. Dr. Dvorkovitz says: "There has never been enough oil produced to supply the demand of the world." The Texas field, he estimates, "will produce as much oil as the world has formerly produced all told;" and he says, "the world will use all the fuel oil from the Beaumont field in time, but the people must not become impatient; it takes time, and lots of time. A market might be found tomorrow for every gallon of oil that Beaumont can produce, but it would take years to carry the oil to this market."

J. A. Chanlor, who came over with Prof. Boverton Redwood and Mr. Fitzhugh to examine the Texas field for some English and Belgian capitalists, says: "I have been in all the oil fields in the world and have seen none that can compare with this one. There is one little spot in Texas that I positively assert can supply the whole world with oil for a century to come. As a fuel it cannot be beaten in the world, and I do not think can be equaled. The Baku oil is a good fuel, product, but cannot compete with Texas oil."

AUTHORITIES, both scientific and practical, seem to be pretty thoroughly agreed that Texas has the supply and will have the demand. We have always believed this since the head of our firm visited the field; but, as Dr. Dvorkovitz says, "it takes time" to prove it. Rome was not, and the oil trade of Texas will not be, "built in a day"—but it will be built. In that building the Export Oil and Pipe Line Co. will be no insignificant factor. It is doing business, pushing business, and will continue so to do. We look for handsome returns to be earned and distributed by the first quarter of the incoming year.

WE BELIEVE THIS THE BEST INVESTMENT BEFORE THE PUBLIC TODAY.

The expenditures for further equipment essential to the business of the Export Oil and Pipe Line Co. require the sale of an additional issue of its treasury stock. We are, therefore, authorized to make such further offering at the directors, however, reserving the right to discontinue the sale of stock or advance the price at any time without notice.

Subscriptions may be sent either to the company at Beaumont, Tex., or to its fiscal agents, as below, with check or draft payable to the order of

THE CARDINAL WAS OUTWITTED

Legal Papers Served on Him at Last.

HAD FORGOTTEN HIMSELF

VENTURED OUTSIDE THE VATICAN AND WAS CAUGHT.

Beginning of the End of a Lawsuit in Which It Was First Necessary to Serve Rampolla With a Court Summons.

ROME, Sept. ..—Cardinal Rampolla, the papal secretary of state, is a heavily burdened man. He has not only to watch and counteract the anticlericals of Italy, France and Spain, but he has also inherited a tiresome lawsuit from his old predecessor. When Cardinal Antonelli used to Rome as state secretary to Pius IX another eminence—Falconieri, the wealthiest member of the sacred college, suddenly, leaving several nephews, for some reason, unexplained as yet, immense property of the cardinal should not pass to the next kin, but was left by order of the cardinal secretary in trust to a Count Carpegna, the revenue went yearly into the coffers of the papal treasury. The nephews protested, but were quietly accommodated beyond the frontiers by the genial hospitality of his holiness.

Italians came to Rome and were followed by the indignant nephews, who instituted legal proceedings to recover the property of their uncle. The case, however, hung fire for years, owing to a preliminary hitch. The plaintiffs could not by any means have a summons served on Cardinal Rampolla, the successor of Antonelli, to show cause why the property should not be restored.

Every ruse was ineffectually employed to corner his eminence and deliver the law papers. Cardinal Rampolla lives in the Vatican, inaccessible to Italian bailiffs, and he never goes out for an airing except in the vatican gardens and parks, which are likewise extraterritorial. The case had to be shelved until some better chance offered to get hold of the cardinal.

The other week his eminence, who had entirely forgotten the Falconieri's claimants, accepted an invitation of the French monks of St. Giovanni and Paolo on the Coelian hill to consecrate a new altar and the law officers got wind of the intended visit. Rampolla on the appointed day drove to the French monastery, consecrated the altar, partook of luncheon, and when in the evening he came out of the convent to enter his carriage, and was giving a parting blessing to the monks, a gruff bailiff tapped him on the back and thrust into his hands the citation to appear in court.

The surprise of the nonplussed secretary of state and the horror of the monks is beyond description. His eminence returned home not in the best of humors and had to appoint a proctor and now the lawyers are gleefully preparing to chop logic on the case, which will be heard after the summer vacations.

BROTHERS SWEAR VENGEANCE

The Hendersons Are on the Trail of Bossie Francis, the Negro Who Murdered Their Sister.

WARRENSBURG, Mo., Sept. 11.—Edward and Roy Henderson, brothers of Miss Mary Henderson, who was murdered by the negro, Bossie Francis, have sworn to capture him. In a letter they declare they are hot on the trail of the negro, and will overtake him within a week at most. They believed the negro would try to reach New Mexico, and on that theory began the search. They got track of a negro at Olathe, Kan., and have traced him to Severy, Greenwood County, near the border of Indian Territory.

Henderson, in a letter to his brother-in-law, W. C. Hyatt, received today, claims that 19 people have seen Bossie and described him accurately, and that he reached Olathe two days after the murder. The suspect they are tracking has visited several towns, and is said to have skulked around the outskirts and begged for food. He told several parties, it is alleged, that he was going to New Mexico. As Bossie had declared before the murder that he was going there, this clew is considered important.

The Hendersons declared they would capture Bossie after the sheriff and posse gave up the chase, and started out on their own accord. This is the first heard of them since they left.

Park Furnishings Removed.

Deputy sheriffs were busy Tuesday removing the furnishings from Grand Avenue Park, in accordance with an order of the St. Louis Circuit Court in a replevin suit filed by the Home Brewing Co. against Henry J. Ruebbelke, manager of the park.

The Home Brewing Co. claims the furnishings and values them at $1250.

The park closed a week ago.

Judge Zachritz issued an order in the replevin suit Monday afternoon. Deputy sheriffs began work Monday night, taking away several van loads of furniture then.

NEW AND ATTRACTIVE DESIGN.

A stylish hat is just as important as a stylish gown, but thick glossy hair is more important than either. It does not cost as much now to have nice hair as it does to get a nice hat, for the hair and scalp have of late been the subject of scientific research and study in which all their little defects and disorders have been found out and a remedy discovered to correct them. Danderine is the name of this discovery, and it never fails to make the hair grow abundantly, thick and beautiful without changing its natural color a particle. Now at all druggists in three sizes—25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Be sure you get the genuine, made only by the Knowlton Danderine Co., Chicago, Ill.

STORIES ABOUT THE PLAYER FOLK AT THE VARIOUS LOCAL THEATERS

The order barring mother-in-law jokes and slurs which, by the order of George Middleton, has been a conspicuous one in the wings of the Columbia Theater for the past year, has been taken down. Whether it has been taken down for good and all remains to be seen, but it has certainly been retired for the week.

This all on account of Wilfred Clarke, his sketch and his mother-in-law.

When Mr. Middleton ordered up the sign regarding mother-in-law jokes he stated that he would not have a lot of alleged actors casting slurs upon the best lot of women that ever lived. Mothers-in-law, he declared, especially when they become grandmothers, were the salt of the earth and he would not have their feelings outraged.

But Wilfred Clarke has created a new phase of the question.

In Mr. Clarke's sketch, "Oscar Birthday," the whole trouble is caused by a mother-in-law who fairly drives Oscar crazy. After standing it as long as he can Oscar gets up his spunk and turns upon his mother-in-law and drives her from his house.

Margaret Maunde, who plays the part of the mother-in-law, off the stage is really Mr. Clarke's mother-in-law, and the very best mother-in-law, Mr. Clarke declares, that ever was. And Theo. Carew, the young woman on the stage who causes all the trouble, and whom Mr. Clarke carries around the room on his shoulder like a sack of flour, is Mr. Clarke's wife and Mrs. Maunde's daughter.

With such a combination as this; with the mother-in-law a party to the offense, what could Mr. Middleton do but order down the notice—at least for the week? He hasn't said whether he would order it up again or not.

The thousands who this season and the past three seasons have seen "The Suwanee River" at Havlin's probably do not know that when the play was written it was with the intention of making the part of the blind girl the star part. The reason why the intention was not made good is because the personality of one ambitious young woman changed the whole character of the play and forced even the writer of the play to acknowledge that the star part was that of Aunt Lindy, the negro mammy.

The young woman who thus forced her personality into the play is Miss Stella Mayhew and the fact that "The Suwanee River" is now enjoying the fourth season and is playing to increased audiences is proof of Miss Mayhew's ability as a character actress.

Among the forces of "The Suwanee River" Company are four colored boys—the quartet. One of them, when he first joined the company and saw Miss Mayhew in her makeup, was sure she was a colored girl. Finally he determined to know to a certainty and approaching her in the wings said:

"Miss Stella, ain't you got some colored blood in you?"

At first Miss Mayhew was inclined to be angry, but seeing that no offense was intended replied:

"Well, not that any one ever heard of, Sam."

"Well, I declare," he said. "You done act the most like one of us out dere on the stage of any white woman ebber I see."

This is criticism that carries weight.

Miss Mayhew started in her stage career in a play written by her aunt and produced by her uncle, George Ober. It was called "Old Homespun" and in it she played the part of a German servant girl. That was about a dozen years ago. It was first produced in Toledo, O. I remember it well, and I remember that on the occasion Miss Mayhew gave indication of the success which she has since attained.

Miss Mignon Shattinger will be the soloist at the Exposition tonight. The chorus is proving one of the leading features of the Ex and tonight, with such a soloist, it should be especially pleasing. Miss Shattinger has been engaged as the leading woman with the "Sign of the Cross" company, which will open the season in a couple of weeks.

Miss Lillian Burkhart has just produced successfully in vaudeville the comedietta, "Kitty Clive, Actress," by P. Frankfort Moore, author of "The Jessamy Bride" and other popular novels. She is now rehearsing a new one-act play, "A Leap for Love," by Miss Anna S. Richardson of McClure's Magazine.

The Hennemans Ladies' Quartet will be one of the musical features of the Exposition, appearing there the week of Sept. 22.

A new demand has been put upon Innes, the famous New York bandmaster. A Colorado paper thinks he ought to make and give away horseshoes in his famous anvil chorus act. As is well known, this mers strike sparks and blueness of illumination is most realistic. The lights are lowered, the red-shirted blacksmiths come out, and their heavy hammers strike sparks and music both from the electric attuned anvils. And the scene is weirdly beautiful, while musically harmonious. But, says this Colorado paper: "Mr. Innes should also provide for the making of genuine horseshoes in the presence of the audience. They would make suitable souvenirs."

John Mason made his debut as a star Thursday, Sept. 5, at Syracuse, in Madeleine Lucette Ryley's new play, "The Altar of Friendship," achieving instantaneous success. The play is pronounced by all of the Syracuse critics as the best work from Mrs. Ryley's pen, and is described as an unusually brilliant comedy drama with deliciously humorous touches, pretty sentiment and extraordinary dramatic interest. Mr. Mason is credited with doing the best work of his career.

Some three weeks ago Local Union No. 2 of the American Federation of Musicians took the initiatory step in what it would like to do in connection with the music of the World's Fair and passed a resolution indorsing Prof. Charles Kunkel for the position of musical director of the Purchase Exposition. Yesterday Prof. Kunkel was notified that the entire American Federation of Musicians, numbering about 75,000 persons, had indorsed the action of the local union. The position is considered by musicians to be one of great importance in connection with the Fair.

It is not generally known that the comedy "On the Quiet," by Augustus Thomas, in which William Collier has made the hit of his life, was written for Nat Goodwin and that the latter kept it in his trunk for a year and then returned it to Mr. Thomas. Collier was at a loss for a play last season, and, meeting Goodwin one day on Broadway, Nat said:

"Willie, Thomas has just the play for you. It is called 'Ridgway of Yale,' and will fit you like a glove."

Collier saw Thomas, read the play, bought the rights and renamed it "On the Quiet." Goodwin afterward saw Collier play the piece at the Grand Opera House, Chicago, and said to him in his dressing room after the performance:

"You are a better actor than I am, Willie, and a better judge of a play."

Charles Marks, personal representative of W. M. Tillotson, manager of "The Burgomaster," arrived in St. Louis this morning to try and prevail upon Manager Short to allow the western Budgomaster company to fill the opening engagement of the Century Sunday night. The Eastern company is still in Boston. Mr. Short failed to be won over and as a result the Eastern company will, as previously contracted, be brought out. The Eastern company has been playing in Boston four months. It will close there Thursday night and will come West on a special train. Had it not been for the St. Louis date it would have continued in Boston until Sept. 22.

New paintings constantly are arriving and among them are several high-class canvases by Carot, Bougereau and Rosa Bonheur.

BANGERT DEFENDS HIS HOUSE.

He Prevents Street Survey Through It With Shotgun.

Charles Bangert of Ferguson has determined to oppose the enforcement of the ordinance passed by the town board, authorizing the commissioners to extend Clark avenue through to Payton avenue.

The proposed extension would bisect Bangert's residence. The commissioners appointed by the board are: Charles A. Cunningham, Charles A. Tush, Charles Gage, C. P. Ellerbe, Jr., and John T. Hesser.

They attempted to make surveys for the extension Monday, but Bangert, armed with a shotgun, ordered them away.

The Wabash Railroad claims 16 feet of ground adjoining Bangert's residence, but Bangert has refused to permit the company to build a fence around it.

Bangert says he will not permit his residence to be cut in two so that he will be compelled to cross the road to get from one part of his house to another.

Mayor Reid says he will apply for an injunction to prevent Bangert from interfering with the proposed street improvement.

The editor of the Collins (Mo.) Advocate remarks: "We will accept wood, cornmeal, wheat, flour, chop, feed, chickens, eggs, turkeys, ducks, geese, apples, lard, bacon, pork, beef, parsnips, persimmons and coon hides on subscription."

THREE CONVICTS ESCAPE.

They Overpowered Guard in the Colorado Penitentiary.

CANON CITY, Col., Sept. 11.—Three convicts at the state penitentiary, Ed Caviness, sent up for murder; Frank Harris, for stealing beef cattle, and D. H. Keen, serving time for laceny, escaped from the penitentiary ranch, two miles from the prison. They overpowered Overseer King, and taking his carbine and revolver and taking horses from the stable, started for the mountains. A large posse is following with bloodhounds. The men are expected to fight if overtaken.

Married to Nurse Husband.

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. —Bracing the danger of disease and death that she might nurse back to health the man of her choice and also to care for his parents, ill with scarlet fever, Mary Reaume, aged 19, left her home in New York and came to Delray, a suburb of Detroit, last Wednesday, and the same afternoon was married to George H. Deering, her betrothed.

"Strong and hearty boy, is it, and no pain? That's good!"

The joy of a new arrival in the family is usually overcast by the shadow of the pain and discomfort the expectant mother must bear.

If she knew of and used "MOTHER'S FRIEND," this would be all dispelled. Tell your friends about it, as being a simple liniment, exclusively for external use, that relaxes the muscles so that pain and suffering are unknown.

"I'm so glad I told her of 'Mother's Friend.'"

It will be sent by express paid on receipt of price, $1.00 per bottle, or can be bought at all responsible Druggists. Book, "Mother-hood," mailed free, containing sensible advice to expectant mothers.
